Great Damage Inflicted, Cost Put in Billions

By The Associated Press

Furious floods ripped at the northeastern states for the second day in a row today, with 104 known dead and property damage estimated in the billions.

It was the worst such catastrophe ever to hit the region.

Rivers, bloated with record-breaking rains, rolled out of their banks across seven states, leaving thousands homeless, roads in shambles, and whole communities debris-covered ruins.

As the mopup of mud and wreckage began in battered New York and New England towns to the north, the stampeding Delaware and its tributaries still flung terror and tumult in areas farther south.

Pennsylvania took the worst beating, with 51 known dead, and at least 70 missing from water-buried camps and homes. The known dead listed by other states:

Connecticut, 30; Massachusettc, 11; New Jersey, 5; New York, 4; Virginia, 2; Rhode Island, 1.

As civil defense organizations, Red Cross and the armed forces threw emergency units into high gear, an indication of the extent of the misery came in this single report of supplies sent by the Army overnight:

Two-hundred cots and blankets and two amphibious "ducks" to Trenton, N. J.; 500 cots and 1,000 blankets airlifted to Hartford, Conn.; 2,000 sandbags to Arlington, Mass.; electric generator to Torrington, Conn., 200 mattresses and blankets to Camden, N. J.

Many towns were without power, and water supplies were spoiled. Communications were hit-or-miss in much of the shattered region.

Among the missing were an unknown number of women and children—possibly 40 or more—from a submerged group of summer cottages near Stroudsburg, Pa. Rescue workers found 14 cabins entirely under water, and no sign of life.

The camp, known as Camp Davis, was completely under water and all 14 buildings were gone. There was no indication whether the adults and children there had gotten to safety before being trapped when the Brodheads Creek overflowed.

Dams Collapse

New reports of dams crumbling under the force of swollen streams added to the swelling total of property damage.

The collapse of the Rice City Dam in North Uxbridge, Mass., sent a five-foot wall of water charging down the Blackstone River toward Woonsocket, R.I., already devastated by earlier floods.

As the rising Delaware River swirled over its banks in Trenton, capital of New Jersey, five fire companies pumped water from the basement of the state house in an effort to forestall damage to the building and its valuable records.

At Seymour, Conn., flood victims watched the angry Naugtuck River undermine a cemetery, upending tombstone and digging out concrete vaults and coffins. Cemetery workers carried corpses from broken coffins.

While downstream communities built hasty sandbag dikes and evacuated low - lying districts, stricken cities upstream reported with relief that the flood crest there had been passed.

Thousands Homeless

Thousands were homeless and whole cities went without drinking water, electricity and gas. There was no news, good or bad, for worried relatives outside some flood areas. Telephone circuits remaining in operation were reserved for emergency use.

The governors of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut declared a state of emergency.

Bridge after bridge was reported washed out. Dams burst and tor-

Margaret May Disclose Plans For Marriage

Birthday Party Could Be Time for Betrothal Statement by Princess

BALLATER, Scotland (AP)—Thousands of Scots jammed this hamlet today to picnic with the royal family and perchance find some hint whether Princess Margaret's 25th birthday Sunday may set the stage for a betrothal announcement.

There was no doubt the fateful birthday has whetted interest in the royal lawn festival beyond all expectations. At 25 Margaret will be free to marry—if she wishes—Peter Townsend, handsome 40-year-old wartime pilot and divorced father of two children.

On all lips was the unanswered question. Will she or wont she?

The bazaar, organized by Queen Mother Elizabeth to raise money for the nearby Crathie Church, was set up at Albergeldie Castle near the royal summer residence of Balmoral Castle. It is expected to draw some 10,000 visitors, particularly in view of the impending birthday.

Margaret helped supervise the setting up of stalls on the castle lawn Friday. Her appearance at

American Trio Will Be Freed, Russia Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has notified the United States that three Americans held in the Soviet Union, including two soldiers missing for seven years, will be released, the State Department announced today.

One of the three, named by the Soviet foreign office as Frederick Charles Hopkins, could not be identified by the State Department from available records. The two soldiers were named in the announcement as:

Wilfred C. Crumish, U. S. Army private, whose next of kin is Mrs. Mary Crumish, Amesbury, Mass. He has been missing from his military intelligence unit at Vienna, Austria, since March 24, 1948.

Murray Fields, U. S. Army private missing from his unit (presumably stationed in Germany) since June 2, 1948. His next of kin is Mrs. Herman Bailes, Bayside, N. Y.

Demonstrations Subside

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's demonstrations against the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission subsided again today although minor clashes were reported Friday night from Kunsan and Kangnung.

No demonstrations were reported at the Seoul port of Inchon. There were only a handful of demonstrators at the southeast port of Pusan.

Gallagher Will Appeal Army Court's Verdict

Sentenced to Life at Hard Labor in Killing Of 2 Fellow Prisoners

NEW YORK (AP)—Sgt. James C. Gallagher says he will go as high as the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary in appealing a court-martial verdict that convicted him of murdering two fellow prisoners of war.

The court-martial Friday announced its verdict after deliberating five hours. In addition to the unpremeditated murder of two Americans in a Korean POW camp, Gallagher was found guilty of collaboration with the Chinese Reds, mistreating fellow prisoners, and informing on them to gain favored treatment for himself.

The military court of eight officers then sentenced him to life in prison at hard labor, the maximum penalty. Unpremeditated murder is equivalent to second degree murder in a civilian court.

The decision is subject to two automatic reviews, first by the 1st Army commanding officer and then by a review board of the Judge Advocate General's Office in Washington.

The 23-year-old Brooklyn soldier paled when the court gave its decision, but soon regained the composure he had maintained throughout the trial.

A 1st Army legal spokesman said Gallagher will be eligible for parole after serving 10 years.

Prosecution witnesses in the trial pictured Gallagher as a camp bully who threw two sick men out of the prisoners' hut and left them to freeze in the bitter Korean winter of 1951. They also told of his efforts to curry favor with his captors.

Other witnesses backed up Gallagher.

Well, Anyway the Flood Makes It Easier To Fish

PORT JERVIS, N. Y. (AP)—The grim saga of the flood was eased a bit by what happened in Austin Crane's back yard.

Crane lives along the bank of the Delaware River here, which surged over its banks Friday.

Inspecting his flooded yard, he saw a 9½-pound pike, about 30 inches long. Later, when the water receded from the yard it left quite a pool—with the fish still flapping about in it.

80 Employes Help

Depot Group Lends Hand To Flood-Stricken Area

Approximately 80 employes of the Marion Engineer Depot, mostly in the shipping department, are working today to fill a request from Washington for a dozen bridges for shipment to the New England and Pennsylvania disaster areas.

The request was received at the local depot late Friday afternoon, Maj. William H. Armstrong, public information officer, said.

THE INITIAL request is for 6 bridges to be shipped to the New England area and another six to the Pennsylvania area. Approximately 30 railroad cars will be utilized in the shipment.

The bridges are called Bailey bridges and are of the type that can be constructed as small and as light as needed, or as large and as heavy as needed. The bridges requested range from 65 to 165 feet in length. They are standard with the Corps of Engineers and are of a pre-fabricated steel construction.

A scale model of the bridge, as well as its component parts, will be on display at the Marion County Fair beginning today, Maj. Armstrong reported. They are used in combat for crossings of rivers or ravines.

IT WAS BELIEVED that the bridges requested for the flood disaster areas would be used to replace those bridges being washed out.

Military units in the disaster areas, probably National Guard units which have been called out, will erect the bridges.

Depot employes will work continuously until the job of shipping the bridges is completed.

Flood Recalls 1889 Tragedy In Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Some 66 years ago an earthen dam above this industrial and coal mining center in western Pennsylvania gave way with a tragic result that is recalled whenever the nation is confronted with a flood disaster.

Within an hour after the dam broke—on May 31, 1889—more than 2,000 people in the Conemaugh Valley had been swept to their deaths.

It started on a rainy Memorial Day — solid, drenching rain that continued through the dark hours of the morning of the 31st.

Twelve miles above Johnstown, then a city of 30,000, the dam on the south fork of the Conemaugh River filled to the brim, although its spillways spewed water to their capacity.

The dam held back a lake 4,000 feet long and 500 to 3,050 feet wide. Its depth was estimated at about 70 feet. Millions of tons of water pushed against the earthen walls, reinforced with clay.

In the middle of the afternoon, it gave way.

Water rushed down the narrow

$2-a-Day Pay Hike for Coal Miners Forecast

Operators and Union Ready To Announce Agreement on Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new $2-a-day pay raise for many soft coal miners was reported ready for announcement today.

The boost, which would come in two stages, could set the pattern for the entire soft and hard coal industry.

Lewis Calls Parley

John L. Lewis, 75-year-old president of the United Mine Workers Union, summoned his 200-man wage-policy committee for a late afternoon meeting, presumably to ratify a new coal labor pact.

The reported agreement was said to call for a 15-cents-an-hour increase, effective Sept. 1 and a further 10-cent raise to take effect next April 1.

Lewis was reported to have reached agreement privately this week with Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn.

Moses represents northern commercial producers and the "captive" mines owned by the steel industry.

Now Make $18.25

Similarly, Lewis and Moses got together secretly in 1952, made a deal and the rest of the industry accepted it, although Southern coal mine owners did so reluctantly. The new agreement would replace that three-year-old contract.

Miners now make an $18.25 basic daily wage. The two-stage increase would raise this to $19.45 Sept. 1 and $20.25 on April 1.

The Charleston, W.Va., Daily Gazette said it learned details of the reported new agreement from highly placed industry sources.

The newspaper said the deal calls for time-and-a-half pay for Saturday work, double pay for Sunday work, and a second week of vacation with $140 in pay.

Few miners work Saturdays or Sundays. Their present contract requires premium rates for Saturday and Sunday work only when a miner has already put in five days work that week. One week of vacation with $100 in pay is now provided.

There was no indication that the

Injuries Prove Fatal to Victim Of Mishap Here

Mrs. Mary Calhoun, critically injured in a head-on collision last Saturday afternoon near Brush Ridge, died Friday in University Hospital, Columbus.

She became Marion County's 17th traffic fatality of the year.

Mrs. Calhoun, 19, a resident of Clio, Mich., was a passenger in a southbound vehicle driven by her husband, James, 32, which collided with a northbound vehicle driven by Fred Spalding, 40, of Columbus, on Route 23.

Calhoun, who sustained a possible fractured back, was released Thursday from Marion General Hospital. Spalding, who sustained a broken left leg, crushed chest and broken collarbone, and his wife, Gloria, who sustaied internal injuries and abrasions, were reported to be in "good" condition at Marion General Hospital today.

Mrs. Calhoun sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries in the accident. Patrolmen filed a reckless operation charge against Calhoun when he was released from the hospital, and at that time he posted bond.

A plea of not guilty was entered by his attorney Friday and a hearing will be held at a later date.

Slayer of Law Officer Faces Death Penalty

Ex-Convict Booked in Chicago on Charges Of Murder, Shooting

CHICAGO (AP)—The state has indicated it will seek the death penalty for police slayer Richard Carpenter.

State's Atty. John Gutknecht said Friday: "The state's demand will fit the crime."

Booked for Murder

Carpenter, 26, was booked on charges of murder in the death of Detective William Murphy and assault with intent to kill in the wounding of Policeman Clarence Kerr.

A coroner's inquest in Murphy's death is scheduled Monday. The case is expected to go before the grand jury next week and an early trial is expected, prosecutors indicated.

Murphy was killed in a gunfight with Carpenter Monday night at a subway station near Chicago's Loop. Kerr was critically wounded Wednesday night in a theater on Chicago's Northwest Side. Kerr is recovering. Both officers were trying to arrest him.

Sought for Year

Carpenter, an ex-convict, had been sought by police for more than a year for questioning about a number of robberies.

Twenty-four hours after Kerr was shot, Carpenter was trapped by police in an apartment building near the theater. The fugitive had held a family hostage for some 23 hours in their apartment until he was captured.

Police said Carpenter admitted shooting both Murphy and Kerr, but refused to sign a statement. In an apparent attempt to lay groundwork for his defense, Carpenter said that both officers shot at him first and he returned their fire in self-defense.

Ike Shows Off His David Like Any Proud Grandpa

FRASER, Colo. (AP)—Watching a proud grandfather always is a heartwarming thing, but it was something special seeing President Eisenhower with a young fellow named David.

Here was a man with a lot of the weight of the world on his shoulders, forgetting it all for a while to show off his seven-year-old grandson's skill as a fisherman, golfer and horseback rider.

Great Pals

It was difficult to tell, though, whether the President or David got the bigger kick out of it all. They were great pals together.

It all happened Friday at the Rocky Mountain ranch where the small boy and his grandfather have been vacationing since Tuesday. Newsmen were admitted for the first time.

When they arrived at the ranch David was dressed in true Western style—battered Hopalong Cassidy hat, cowboy boots, black sweater over a blue jersey shirt. The President was just as informal in a wide-brimmed Western hat, sports shirt with bright red, yellow and brown checks, tan slacks and rust shade loafer style shoes.

Golfing Instruction

Eisenhower was swinging a golf club in front of his cottage, and he suggested that the newsmen might like to see a bit of David's golf.

With grandfather spouting a constant stream of advice, David banged away about 15 minutes at a chip net target set up about 20 yards off.

The youngster managed to miss the target nearly every time, but came close enough once or twice to win the President's praise. Once after a good shot the President called enthusiastically:

"That's right. Hit it like that and it'll go a country mile."

Some of Eisenhower's other re-

Town To Make Up for Snub

Things Are Looking Up For Olympic Champ Lee

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP)—Things will be different the next time Dr. Sammy Lee comes to Garden Grove.

Lee, an Army major, a physician and a two-time Olympic diving champion, was rebuffed twice—because he is an Oriental—when he tried to find a home in this quiet little city in lush Orange County.

Citizens Rally to Him

But Friday citizens of Garden Grove, aroused by the news, rallied to Lee's support.

Realtors, physicians and politicians urged Lee, now serving with the Army Medical Corps at Ft. Carson, Colo., to come to Orange County to find a home.

Said Lee: "My belief in the American people is substantiated."

The Long Beach Press-Telegram said the major had accepted its offer to fly him and his family here.

Lee said however, that an imminent addition to his family and studies for a medical specialty board examination might delay his return until October. He is due to be separated from the Army this fall.

His parents came to California from Korea 50 years ago. Because of his Oriental ancestry, two deals for homes fell through in Garden Grove, Lee said.

Friday Joe Furr, president of the West Orange County Real Estate Board, offered to find Lee a home of his choice in the community, a city of 33,000 some 30 miles south of Los Angeles.

Doctors Back Him

Garden Grove doctors organized an unofficial committee to support Lee, and the Orange County Medical Assn. reported it knew no reason why Lee could not be admitted immediately to membership.

Refrigerator Death Trap for Baby Boy

STEPPVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A large electric refrigerator from which the food had been removed was a death trap Friday for a baby boy, but his two sisters were revived.

Coroner Grady Moss said Jerry O'Neal Burns, 19 months, was dead upon arrival at a nearby clinic. Geraldine Burns, 10, and Elaine, 6, revived when fresh air reached their lungs.

Moss said the children were left at their farm home while the parents worked in a field. He said Terry Odell Burns, twin of the dead boy, apparently closed the door on the three after they crawled inside.

The mother, Mrs. James O. Burns, found them when she noticed the food was out of the refrigerator.

Theater Attractions

Following is a summary of the motion pictures that will be presented at theaters in Marion next week.

—Palace—

"The Private War of Major Benson," comedy in technicolor co-starring Charlton Heston and Julie Adams and introducing little Tim Hovey, will be shown along with "Long John Silver" in a double feature billing Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace Theater. The latter, in Cinemascope and color, stars Robert Newton, Connie Gilchrist and Kit Taylor.

In the former, Heston plays the role of Major Barney Benson, a tough Army career officer who dislikes what he considers the Army's kid-glove treatment of rookies, and says so in a national magazine.

A a result, the Army assigns the Major as an instructor at Sheridan Military Academy. Upon his arrival, he finds that its student body ranges in age from 6 to 15 and that it's a religious institution conducted by an order of nuns. He takes over and becomes a hard taskmaster. He also falls in love with the resident physician, played by Julie Adams, who sets herself the seemingly hopeless task of making him a little softer and more humane.

"Long John Silver" continues the exciting adventure story from where Robert Louis Stevenson left off in his famous story, "Treasure Island." It is based on an original story by Martin Rackin and relates a tale of pirates and their bucanneering battles for buried treasure in and around Porto Bello. In the role of the famous one-legged sea cook is Robert Newton.

Starting Thursday to stow for an entire week will be another double billing, featuring a Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis comedy, "You're Never Too Young." In Vistavision and technicolor, it co-stars Diana Lynn and Nina Foch.

In the story, Dean and Jerry are the unwitting carriers of a fabulous stolen diamond, planted on them by the thief in an effort to get it past the police. They get it past but then their troubles begin. With the thief after them, Jerry is forced to pose as an eleven-year-old and take cover in the all-girls school where Dean teaches, and he is trapped between the murderous passes of the killer and the amorous passes of 200 teenage co-eds. Their predicament is further complicated by a four-way romance.

Completing the double billing will be "Robbers' Roost," starring George Montgomery, Richard Boone, Sylvia Findley and Bruce Bennett.

Based on a Zane Grey novel, it tells of a once-active ranch owner, now confined to a wheel chair, who decides to protect his vast herd of cattle by hiring two of the West's toughest gangs of rustlers as overseers. He counts on their distrust of each other to act as a prevention against his cattle being stolen.

—Ohio—

"How To Be Very, Very Popular," a comedy farce in Cinemascope and color and starring Betty Grable, Sheree North, Bob Cummings, Charles Coburn and Tommy Noonan, is the main attraction of the double feature currently showing through Tuesday at the Ohio Theater.

Completing the billing is "New York Confidential," a crime dramatization in which Broderick Crawford, Richard Conte, Marilyn Maxwell, J. Carroll Naish and Anne Bancroft are starred.

In the former, Betty Grable and Sheree North portray a couple of burlesque dancers who have to take it on the lam because they witnessed a murder and the murderer is after them. When their tiny funds run out, they find themselves on a college campus where they decide to hole up, it being the least likely place that a burlesque pair would hide out. Through their zany activities on the college campus, they break many old college traditions.

Charles Coburn portrays the college president while Bob Cummings is a long-term student.

"New York Confidential" tells the inside story of the top men of the international crime ring and how the organization operates. Broderick Crawford is seen in the role of Lupo, the boss of the crime ring, who selects gunman Nick Magellan, played by Richard Conte, to do a killing. Lupo also has his own problems with his daughter Kathy leaving home following a bitter scene with her dad and the mob's Washington lobbyist crossing the organization on a ten million dollar oil deal. A vote is taken to eliminate the double crosser and three hoodlums are assigned the task.

Showing Wednesday through Saturday will be another double feature, "Mau Mau," a documentary film, and "Skabenga," filmization of a big game hunting expedition in South Africa.

The former picture reviews the highly explosive Mau Mau issue which has turned Kenya into a land of martial law. Before the coming of the white settlers, the native Kenyans controlled most of the land. They were an agricultural people and the land always provided for the natives.

With the coming of the white settlers, the sociological makeup of Kenya underwent a drastic change and unrest began to flourish among the natives. Then the secret Mau Mau society was established, the leaders of which based their recruiting of members on fear.

"Skabenga," in color, was made by George Michael of Pretoria, South Africa, and John B. Kennard, his cameraman, over a four-year period with Michael, the professional hunter, as the central figure. It tells of his adventures as a big game hunter in Africa, commissioned by the local government to thin out predatory herds of elephants and to track and slay man-killing lions and leopards.

—North Drive-In—

"The Violent Men," in Cinemascope and color and starring Glenn Ford, Barbara Stanwyck and Edward G. Robinson, will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the North Drive-In Theater.

The film has its setting in the post-Civil War period when small ranchers faced the challenge of the land barons. In the story, the embattled ranchers organize under the leadership of a former cavalry officer, portrayed by Glenn Ford, who uses his military science to combat the killer army seeking to destroy him and his fellows.

A first run attraction billed for showing Wednesday through Saturday is "Francis In the Navy," a new comedy hit, the sixth in the popular talking mule series.

Francis, the talking mule, is again teamed with Donald O'Connor, and in a co-starring role is Martha Hyer.

The opening of the film finds Francis, the mule, classified as "naval surplus" and is therefore placed on the auction block. When Donald learns of this outlandish injustice he immediately rushes to the aid of Francis.

As a result, he is landed in a series of embarrassing yet funny positions. Donald is a lieutenant in the United States Army and the comedy soon reveals that he has a double in the service of the U.S. Navy.

—South Drive-In—

"Rogue Cop," an underworld drama starring Robert Taylor, Janet Leigh, George Raft, Steve Forrest and Anne Francis, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the South Drive-In Theater.

It is the story of a police detective who tries to play both sides of the fence at once, only to find that easy money doesn't spell an easy life. Robert Taylor enacts Chris Kelvaney, who, by playing the game both ways — on one side as a detective and on the other as the confidant of crime syndicate operator Dan Beaumonte, portrayed by George Raft — has come a long way in contrast to his younger patrolman brother.

The younger brother plays it straight and when he refuses to "play ball" with the syndicate, is liquidated. The murder brings to a head suspicion of Chris' dealings with the underworld.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday is "Give a Girl a Break," technicolor musical with Marge and Gower Champion and Debbie Reynolds in principal roles.

The film tells the story of three girls who vie to replace the star of a Broadway musical, of the respective men in their lives and of the complications which ensue in their desperate attempts to outshine each other in winning the race to get their names in lights on a theater marquee.

"Rage at Dawn," with Randolph Scott heading a cast which includes Forrest Tucker, Mala Powers, J. Carrol Naish and Edgar Buchanan, will be the attraction Thursday through Saturday.

Scott portrays an ex-Confederate spy engaged by a Chicago detective agency to round up a vicious band of desperadoes, known as the Reno Brothers. The story deals with their train robberies, their bank holdups and their eventual capture.

—State—

"Bridges of Toko Ri" starring William Holden and Mickey Rooney, and "Phfft" with Judy Holliday, Jack Lemon and Jack Carson, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater. The former is in technicolor.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Asphalt Jungle" and "Diamond Wizard." The former stars Marilyn Monroe and Sterling Hayden, and heading the cast in the latter is Dennis O'Keefe.

John Wayne and Henry Fonda are stars of the film, "Fort Apache," which will be the main attraction of the double feature Thursday and Friday. Completing the billing will be Walt Disney's technicolor production, "Bear Country."

Saturday only, the attractions will be "South of Caliente" starring Roy Rogers and "Top Banana," technicolor film starring Phil Silvers and Rose Marie.

SHEREE NORTH (left) and Betty Grable are two of the stars of the Cinemascope comedy, "How To Be Very, Very Popular," main attraction of the double feature currently showing through Tuesday at the Ohio Theater. Heading the cast with them are Bob Cummings, Charles Coburn and Tommy Noonan.

DONALD O'CONNOR and Francis, the talking mule, are teamed for the sixth time in a new comedy hit, "Francis in the Navy." Co-star of the film, which will be a first run attraction Wednesday through Saturday at the North Drive-In Theater, is Martha Hyer.

Dayton Siamese Twins Will Begin Tour of Exhibition

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton's Siamese twins will be put on public exhibition next week, their father, Wesley Galyon, announced last night

He said Donnie and Ronnie, who will be four next Oct. 28, will begin a tour next week at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. Galyon said a three-year contract was signed with Cox and Alexander, a booking agency associated with the Clyde Beatty Circus.

Galyon said the decision was made because he wants to build a home suitable for the twins, a place that will assure privacy in later life.

The boys are joined at the abdomen. Physicians ruled out severance because they share a common bowel system.

Their father said they will live in an air-conditioned trailer and be viewed through the trailer's picture window. He said the contract calls for a minimum of $400 a week plus transportation and nursing care.

He plans to accompany them throughout the tour.

Clean Elections

By George Sokolsky

One of the bills not passed during the recent session of Congress is S.636. It was not declared "must" legislation by President Eisenhower. Naturally, the President does not have to declare any legislation "must," nor should he According to the Constitution, it is Congress that is the legislative branch of the government and all any president needs to do is to approve or veto bills passed by Congress. The "must" legislation habit is a corruption of the legislative process introduced by Franklin D. Roosevelt and continued by his successors. It gives the president a leadership and a responsibility not intended by the Founding Fathers.

TO RETURN to S.636, here is a bill introduced by Senators Hennings, Hayden, Green and Gore to make elections more honest than they are.

The bill is called "Federal Elections Act of 1955," and it should be passed to safeguard the institution of government by choice from being corrupted by advertising agencies, press agents, professional party managers and such who benefit by the size of campaign expenditures.

Advertising agencies, for instance, receive 15 per cent of the expenditures which pass through their hands. The more spent, the better these self-sacrificing idealists do for themselves.

In the first place, this bill abolishes one of the tricks for pyramiding campaign expenditures, namely, the organization of multiple committees some of which exist only to legalize the evasion of the spirit of the law.

UNDER S.636 "No contribution shall be accepted, and no expenditure made, by or on behalf of a political committee for the purpose of supporting the candidacy of a candidate until the candidate (or a representative designated by him in writing) has authorized in writing the political committee to support his candidacy and has filed a copy of such authorization with the clerk of the House of Representatives . . ."

The multiple committees therefore will have to be authorized; they will have to register, and unless they take money under the table, they will have to report.

This is a most important improvement because the multiple committees are a perfect device for hiding contributions. Under this bill, such committees may be organized and contributions may be made to them, but they will have to give some excuse for existence.

The bill has about every provision one can think of to prevent secret contributions except the passing of money under the table, which nobody can prove and which, being illegal, becomes an income tax evasion and a dangerous adventure in which many, if not most, politicians engage.

NO LAW CAN BE passed which legislates men's morals and this is a moral question.

The limitations upon expenditures are as follows:

1. The sum of $50,000 if a candidate for senator or representative-at-large, or the sum of $12,500 if a candidate for representative, delegate, or resident commissioner.

2. In the case of an election other than a caucus or nominating convention, an amount equal to the amount obtained by multiplying 10 cents by the total number of votes cast in either the last primary election or the last general election for all candidates for the office which the candidate seeks.

These provisions are a step forward in making elections honest, but the elections continue to be costly which is really the issue.

If the 1956 election, pre-convention and post - convention, costs both parties 100 million dollars it is too much. Half of that amount is too much. It simply means that whoever is elected president is obligated to too many persons and some of them not particularly proper persons.

IT MAKES LITTLE difference whether a candidate gets excessive contributions from, let us say, the Rockefeller family or the United Automobile Workers; the candidate places himself under obligations which ought to be beyond his capacity to fulfill. President Eisenhower has spent two years discovering how costly such obligations can be and how embarrassing at times.

Adequate limitations upon election contributions will help, but what needs to be done also is to place an absolute roof on expenditures.

Expenditures can be traced more easily than contributions, particularly if they are spent on radio and television or in newspapers, and the penalty ought to be automatic expulsion from office once the excessive expenditures are established. That is the way it is done in Great Britain where elections are clean and honest and representative.

Brother Act

Three Ford Boys Form Strong Industrial Team

DETROIT (INS) — Three brothers, young and with ideas, form an important triumvirate in the business world today.

They are Henry Ford II, 38, Benson Ford, 35, and William Clay Ford, 30, grandsons of Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor Co.

"Young Henry" has been in the news since he was named president of the company in 1946. His two brothers have had less of the limelight.

LAST APRIL 15 the company announced a major reorganization in its executive structure, and Benson and William took on new responsibility.

Benson is now vice president of the Mercury and Special Products divisions and William is vice president of the Continental division.

Benson had been active in the company since 1940, William since 1948.

"Young Henry" said he didn't have all the answers to the company's problems when he was named president in 1946. Ford was losing $300 on every car it made, and only wartime profit guarantees plugged the deficit.

He launched a $2 billion expansion program which will be completed in 1958. The organization established by his grandfather was decentralized and streamlined.

PLANS FOR THE 1949 Ford were thrown away and a three-year job of designing and producing was done in 18 months. It was a completely new car.

By 1953, the company held 25 per cent of the market and increased its penetration in 1954 to nearly 31 per cent. Last year, Ford car sales ended in a statistical dead heat for first place with Chevrolet.

This year, Henry said, "is going to be a very tough competitive year. We have no illusions about that, but we are prepared for it. And the saving grace of this tough competitive battle is that the customer is the one who is going to benefit."

Henry's first job with the company was in 1940 as a mechanic in the dynamometer room in Dearborn. He later worked at Rouge plant installations and the test garage.

He had graduated from Hotchkiss school in Lakeville, Conn., and was a member of the 1940 Yale class.

AT THE SAME time, Benson Ford left Princeton after two years and went to work in the experimental garage at the engineering laboratories.

At Edsel Ford's suggestion, he learned the fundamentals of automobile engine construction through actual experience in assembling and tearing down test motors.

As part of his father's plan to have the three boys learn all phases of the business, Benson also worked in the purchasing department and supercharger division.

All three brothers saw service during World War II. Henry went into the Naval Reserve as an ensign. William was a Naval aviation cadet, and Benson joined the Army a private and came out a captain.

While awaiting orders to sea duty in 1943, Henry learned his father, Edsel, who had been president since 1919, was dead.

Eighty - year - old Henry Ford came out of retirement to run the company, now producing jeeps and bombers.

TWO MONTHS LATER Ensign Ford was placed on inactive duty, rejoined the company and rose to executive vice president.

In the spring of 1945, the elder Henry became ill and bedfast in Fairlane, his country estate in Dearborn. The board of directors met in September and made Henry the third president of Ford.

Automobile making is not the only field in which the Ford boys work as a team. In 1949, Henry had a major role in forming Detroit's United Foundation, a collection agency for charitable organizations.

Benson now is a foundation director and William a trustee.

Being head of one of the "Big Three" has brought Henry many honors, including the title of "Best Dressed Man in Business" for 1951. When told this Henry said, "That's in the low price field, I assume."

Nationally, Henry has served as chairman of the board for the American Heritage Foundation and alternate delegate to the UN General Assembly. Bill was 1954 national campaign manager of the United Cerebral Palsy Associations.

Custody Fight Anticipated in Schmidt's Suit

Airman Whose Wife Remarried Files for Divorce in California

RED BLUFF, Calif. (AP)—A custody fight loomed today over the 2½-year-old son whom Airman Daniel Schmidt saw for the first time when he returned last week from a Red Chinese prison.

Schmidt, 22, grimly filed a divorce complaint here Friday against his 21-year-old wife, Una, who says she married logger Alford Fine last September when she thought Schmidt was dead. Schmidt asked custody of the boy, Danny, charging Una with being an "unfit mother" and with "extreme cruelty."

Her attorney, Harold Berliner, said in Nevada City:

"Una won't consent to giving up her son."

Una and Fine, he said, will continue living apart as "both consider it inappropriate that they live together until this is settled."

Schmidt, after meeting Una briefly in Nevada City, was quoted last week as saying she had done a "terrific job" with the little boy and pointed out it wasn't easy for a girl to bring up a child all by herself.

Schmidt filed the divorce suit at the Tehama County Court House stopping here en route to Portland, Ore., where he will visit his mother, Mrs. Nellie Peters.

Schmidt is traveling with Una's mother, Mrs. Walter F. Ferguson.

His attorney, Howard P. Welch of Sacramento, said he would serve Una with a copy of the divorce complaint as soon as he finds her. She is hiding out in the San Jose area with the little boy who, she says, calls Fine "daddy."

Schmidt's attorney, Welch, said the Air Force has advised him it is withholding the $200 monthly allotment from Schmidt which Una has been getting "until the matter is clarified." He said the divorce would be the usual California type—an interlocutory decree with a final decree after a year's wait.

Margaret

the bazaar was expected but not guaranteed.

Meanwhile, speculation over Margaret's plans for the future reached fever pitch throughout Britain. British reporters, keeping tabs on Townsend in Belgium where he is British air attache, made much of the fact he summoned his two sons to visit him at seaside Mariaerke.

They hinted broadly he wanted to tell them they soon will have the Princess for a stepmother.

Live With Mother

The boys are Charles, 13, and Hugh, 10. Townsend has legal custody, but they live with their mother, now Mrs. John de Laszlo, in England.

The Townsend boys are already acquainted with Margaret. They used to picnic with her and their father when he was equerry of the royal family.

If the decision is to wed, it is considered likely Parliament would free the Princess of her royal responsibilities by passing a bill permitting her to renounce her right of succession to the throne. She is third in line. Margaret's birthday will be celebrated quietly at Balmoral with her sister Queen Elizabeth II, the Duke of Edinburgh, the two royal children and the Queen Mother.

Sun rises at 5:48 a.m. and sets at 7:22 p.m.

A SERGEANT AWAITS HIS FATE. Apparently deep in thought, 23-year-old Sgt. James C. Gallagher awaits the verdict of a court martial board of eight Army officers who heard testimony in his New York trial on charges of unpremeditated murder of three fellow prisoners of war in a North Korean prison camp. He was found guilty of the murder of two of his fellow POW's and was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor. (Story on Page 1).

Man Wounded In Shooting, Reported 'Fair'

CRESTLINE — A 26-year-old woman, carrying a 12-gauge shotgun, walked into the Crestline police station last night and told officers she had just shot a man.

Mrs. Inez Kelly Keith, 26, of Crestline, told Police Chief Ralph Taylor that she had just shot Robert Trully, 33, of Crestline, because he had been molesting her. Police found the wounded Trully in front of Georgie's Kitchen on Railroad Ave., near the New York Central tracks and the train depot.

Trully was reported in "fair" condition today in Crestline Emergency Hospital with gunshot wounds in his shoulder and leg. Officials said he also was evidently struck with the butt of a gun.

Mrs. Keith pleaded guilty to a charge of shooting with intent to kill in a brief hearing held in the police station last night before Crestline Mayor Nelson Lee. Bond was set at $5,000 and she is being held in lieu of bond in the Crawford County jail in Bucyrus.

The Crestlie woman told authorities that the shooting took place about 10:35 p.m. Friday in front of Georgie's Kitchen. She said Trully was molesting her, that she went home to get a shotgun and came back to the scene where she shot Trully.

marks went like this:

"Keep your head down ... You're trying too hard ... You're topping them just a little ... Take your time."

Forty or more newsmen crowded around and cameramen shouted instructions at David, but it didn't seem to bother him.

He appeared quite oblivious to them, too, when he went on to display what he has learned about casting for trout ... His only disappointment was that he didn't catch a fish.

David never had done any casting before when he arrived at the ranch. The President, squatting on the bank of a pond stocked with trout which cost about $1.25 each, remarked with a satisfied smile that the boy was doing all right.

Standing on the end of a small dock with a 2½ ounce rod with a "flat fish" lure, David fished calmly while his grandfather watched the casting with an expert's eye.

"Good work, good work, that's a good one," Eisenhower called.

"Now draw your line back through the water. That's right fellow."

And then, musing out loud, the President said a bit ruefully:

"It's just too bad he didn't catch a fish. By golly, he certainly deserves to catch one."

David did better at horseback riding than he did at either golf or fishing. No novice in the saddle, the boy brought back to the President memories of when he rode a horse as a youngster on the Kansas plains.

Driver Escapes Injury In Morrow Auto Crash

No one was injured in one accident investigated Friday in Morrow County by state highway patrolmen from the Marion post.

It occurred at 4:35 p.m. on Route 42 about 12 miles north of Mount Gilead. Jean R. Morgan of Mansfield was southbound when her car left the road on the right side and went into a ditch, striking a fence post owned by Roy Cottrell of near Bellville.

The car was moderately damaged, patrolmen said.

Seven Escape Workhouse by Removing Bars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Seven inmates of the Columbus workhouse early today sawed their way out of a second-story window, slid down a rope of blankets and mattress covers and walked off to freedom.

Assistant workhouse superintendent E. J. Bell said the seven were last seen going out the window by another inmate, who alerted a downstairs guard by ringing a dormitory bell.

Bell said the men sawed through 12 bars on a window in the 40-man dormitory in the "idle house" section of the workhouse, occupied by men not assigned to work details. They wear civilian clothes.

There are no walls around the building and Bell said "once they go out the window, they're out in the world."

Only two guards were on duty, both downstairs, Bell said. He termed the guard shortage acute.

The seven were listed as Robert E. McDaniel, 28, Mansfield, sentenced for contributing to the delinquency of a minor and a previous escape July 8, 1954; Virgil R. Van Hoose, 33, Columbus, intoxication and a previous escape; LeRoy Hoffman, 20, Columbus, petty larceny; Jack H. DeVine, 21, Columbus, assault and battery; Henry Gonzales, (age unavailable) Mansfield, tampering with a car; Lawrence M. Sullivan, 35, Briggsdale in Franklin County, non-support and Robert A. Staley, 24, Columbus, non-support.

The workhouse serves a 19-county central Ohio area.

Orange County Board of Supervisors, said he was shocked to learn what had happened to Lee. "We didn't have anything to do with it," he said. "A subdivider can put restrictions in deeds. But whether he can enforce them is another thing."

One of the real estate men, David E. Johnston, said some of the neighbors in a development where Lee looked at a house last month feared the presence of an Oriental would depreciate their land values. Lee looked elsewhere.

The other salesman, Gordon Tripp, said his discussions with Lee about another tract house didn't reach the point of an actual transaction.

"I did point out to Dr. Lee that I thought he would be uncomfortable as the only Oriental in a small group of homes," Tripp said. "He did not press the issue."

Coal

royalty paid by mine owners into the union's health-welfare fund would be changed by the new contract. It now stands at 40 cents a ton.

After a period of sagging sales, the coal industry this year began to share some of the prosperity enjoyed by other industries. It was common talk that Lewis — who could have sought contract changes two years ago — would wait no longer. This was particularly so since substantial wage increases were negotiated earlier this summer in the auto and steel industries.

Continuing mechanization of coal mines has reduced the work force to less than 200,000, about half the number of miners employed five years ago to turn out approximately the same amount of coal.

A new soft coal contract is generally followed quickly by a similar agreement in the anthracite, or hard coal, industry of eastern Pennsylvania.

Group Begins Study of Polio Serum Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The governor's advisory committee on polio vaccine has opened a study aimed at getting the drug to youngsters whose families cannot pay for it, the state department of health said today.

The advisory group, in its first meeting yesterday, named Dr. Ollie M. Goodloe, Columbus city health commissioner, and Dr. Warren W. Wheeler of Ohio State University, to head a subcommittee of physicians studying the problem.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche named the group last week to advise the state health department on equitable distribution of the Salk vaccine, still in short supply.

The committee yesterday agreed that the 5-9 age group was best for high priority usage, in accordance with recommendation of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, state health director, said today that while Salk vaccine is becoming available commercially, it will probably be in short supply for the next few months.

Committee members in addition to Drs. Goodloe and Wheeler, include Charles S. Nelson, Ohio State Medical Assn.; Mrs. Walter W. Denney, Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers' Assn.; Nick Avellone, Ohio State Pharmaceutical Assn.; Joseph Miller, Ohio State Bar Assn.; Mrs. Maud Smythe, Services for Crippled Children; Frank Donaldson, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; Miss Celia Cranz, Ohio State Nurses' Assn.; P.C. Bechtel, State Department of Education; Jay Collins, Ohio Hospital Assn., and Mrs. Lita Roberson, Ohio Farm Bureau.

Floods

rents of water tore mercilessly at buildings and anything else in the way. Hazardous rescues were routine.

Troops and facilities in the 1st and 2nd Army areas were ordered to give all aid possible to flood-ravaged areas.

Helicopters fluttered overhead dropping supplies and rescuing people from roof tops and isolated scraps of high ground. The aircraft, a welcome sight to stranded flood victims, flew in from Army, Navy and Coast Guard stations.

Flood waters apparently hit hardest at Stroudsburg, Pa., with at least 20 counted dead, and Waterbury, Conn., where at least 15 persons were reported to have lost their lives.

The Naugatuck River roared through Waterbury, tearing out power lines and sweeping away buildings. It was "the worst disaster Waterbury has ever seen," said Fire Chief Francis T. Scully.

Stroudsburg, a resort center in the Pocono Mountains, was left with all its bridges and main roads washed away. There was no drinking water or household gas for heating and cooking.

While Stroudsburg began the messy job of bailing out, cities further down the Delaware River system awaited the full fury of the torrent. At Easton, Pa., 40 feet of water broke a 53-year-old Delaware River flood record of 38.6 feet.

In Rhode Island the rain-swollen Blackstone and Mill Rivers burst through Horseshoe Dam and poured into Woonsocket, flooding a densely populated tenement section of the city. Five hundred families were evacuated just before the churning water moved in.

At Pawtucket further downstream, sandbag dikes were raised along the Blackstone's banks.

Children Evacuated

Hundreds of children at summer camps in southeastern New York were evacuated to high ground by helicopters and rescue boats.

Port Jervis, N. Y., a railroad center at the confluence of the Delaware and Neversink Rivers, was left with damage estimated at more than a million dollars after both rivers flooded the town.

Putnam, Conn., had both a fire and flood problem at one time. A magnesium plant caught fire during the day and burned late into the night. "The explosions have been terrible," reported Mayor John Dempsey.

At the same time, he said, the city was "absolutely helpless from the flood waters of the Quinebaug and French Rivers. We've been evacuating people all day."

The devastating floods first started in Virginia on the heels of heavy rains that poured down after Hurricane Diane wore herself out in the Carolinas.

The storms swept through Pennsylvania and New York and on into New England. Record rainfalls all along the storm belt soon raised streams and creeks to dam-breaking proportions. The heavy run-off fed into the larger rivers that drain the area, bringing crisis floods.

Floods of Former Years

By The Associated Press

The nation has suffered many floods which took a fearful toll of lives and property.

The worst loss of life occurred in the great Johnstown, Pa., disaster of 1889—more than 2,000 died.

Other great floods through the years included:

1856—waves lashed by gales engulfed Last Isle, La., and drowned 400 persons attending a ball.

1874—a dam burst in Mill River Valley, Mass., and surging waters took the lives of 144 persons. Another 220 died in western Pennsylvania floods.

1881—the Mississippi and Ohio Valley, counted 138 drowned and 15 million dollars in property damages from high waters.

1903—a cloudburst left 300 dead in Heppner, Ore.

1912—200 drowned in the Mississippi Valley and property damage was estimated at 45 millions.

1913—400 lives were lost and the city of Dayton, Ohio, was nearly wiped out. In the states of Ohio and Indiana, a total of 730 persons lost their lives. Sixty thousand buildings were destroyed and property losses were put at 180 millions.

1916 — deaths totaled 100 and damages five million in Cabin Creek Valley, West Virginia. Fifty died along the south Atlantic coast.

1921 — Pueblo, Colo., listed 120 dead and 140 missing.

1927—Ohio and Mississippi Valley floods took a toll estimated at from 300 to 900 lives.

1928—a dam failure near Los Angeles, Calif., left 250 dead and 15,000 homeless. There were 2,000 victims of a flood at Lake Okeechobee, Fla., caused by rains and a hurricane.

1935—the death count reached 250 in eastern U.S. floods.

1936—rampaging rivers swept 13 states from Maine to Virginia—including the states currently ravaged by flood waters. There were 168 deaths, 429,000 left homeless and more than half a billion dollars in property losses.

1937—a death toll estimated at 400 to 900 in what came to be known as the "big Louisville flood." Property damage 500 million.

1951—damages of more than a billion dollars suffered in devastating floods on the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers. Vital industrial districts of Kansas City and other points were inundated. Deaths totaled 31.

Magnesium Is Loosed on City In Connecticut

PUTNAM, Conn. (AP) — Ten Thousand residents of this northern Connecticut city spent a night of terror as hundreds of barrels of exploding magnesium floated on flood waters through the business district.

Showers of fiercely blazing metal, 250 feet high, lighted up the sky from dusk to dawn, setting more than a half dozen smaller fires in homes and factories in the path of the floods.

Despite the danger from the exploding magnesium, civil defense authorities said there were no casualties.

The blazing metal poured through the city from a destroyed magnesium plant — the Metal Sellers Corp., where fire broke out early Friday as flood water hit the boilers.

Fire burned all day in the three-story plant and released its supply of magnesium, estimated at 200 tons, Friday night. Hundreds of homes and business sites were wiped out by the raging waters as the city was split into three sections.

Water 8 feet above flood stage from the Quinebaug and French Rivers poured through the business district.

More than 400 were bedded down for the night in churches and other buildings. Red Cross and civil defense agencies supplied food and clothing.

Camp Washed Away; No Sign Of 40 Missing

STROUDSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Swollen waters of Brodhead Creek today balked rescuers in their attempts to determine the fate of 40 persons missing from a low-lying camp site five miles north of here.

The one and a half acre Davis Camp was reported inundated.

State police who reached the scene said there were "no signs of anything" at the camp.

The 14 buildings had vanished in the waters which swirled through the valley in the Pocono Mountain resort area Thursday night and Friday.

Rescue units said they would have to wait until the water receded before they would know whether the 40, mostly mothers and their children, might have escaped.

The camp was operated by the Rev. Leon J. Davis of Nanuet, N. Y., a retired Baptist minister. He said he had no word from there.

The camp was occupied by vacationers from Jersey City, Rutherford, West Paterson and West Caldwell, N. J., and Staten Island, N. Y.

The sun shone on a scene of desolation today. Isolated resorts dotted the landscape like so many islands. State police reported many resorts were evacuated and all persons safe. Others, cut off before evacuation was possible, were reported on high ground and their occupants safe from the flood waters.

Twenty-six dead were counted in this region. There was no accurate way to determine the number of missing, which probably amounted to dozens.

In the downpour which followed in the wake of Hurricane Diane, the Brodhead Creek rose rapidly. There were two flash floods which sent water surging downstream to the Delaware River. In its path it crushed bridges, including the only link between Stroudsburg and its neighbor, East Stroudsburg.

State police reported roads were virtually impassable and were admitting only emergency vehicles to Stroudsburg. One road was open to the resort city. East Stroudsburg was completely cut off from the world.

Rep. Robinson To Head Study

To View Laws Dealing With Eminent Domain

Rep. Kenneth A. Robinson of Marion County was notified today by Roger Cloud, speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives and chairman of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission, that he has been appointed chairman of a committee to make a study of Ohio's laws dealing with the powers of eminent domain—the powers to appropriate property for public use.

The study was requested in a resolution adopted by the 101st General Assembly to help the 102nd General Assembly, which convenes in 1957.

The committee is expected to make a study of the present statutes dealing with this all-important problem with the idea of recommending any changes to consolidate and integrate these laws into a more concise form.

It was pointed out that these studies are now spread out in many parts of the Revised Code and it is very difficult to locate pertinent and related sections dealing with these powers.

valley toward this city, standing at the junction of Stony Creek and Conemaugh River, at 70 miles an hour.

Within an hour it had swept bridges, houses, communities into its churning waters—and people, an estimated 2,200 of them. In Johnstown's Grandview Cemetery lie 777 victims of the flood, still unidentified.

The scene of horror and devastation has seldom been equalled in this country.

Paper Is Printed In Spite of Water

PORT JERVIS, N. Y. (AP)—Pressmen stood in the water Friday to get out the Port Jervis Union-Gazette, which hasn't missed an edition in 105 years.

The newspaper, its building sloshing with flood waters, moved its editorial operations and its Associated Press teletype printer to offices of the Tri-State Associated Telephone Corp., on higher ground.

Copy boys hustled stories down the water-filled street to the printers, who stuck to their undamaged linotypes and presses. Pressmen waded about, locking forms on the presses.

Tons of newsprint was soaked and ruined, but the paper came out with a six-page edition, instead of its usual eight pages, plus an advance-printed four-page supplement—and right on time.

Army To Fly Supplies Into Disaster Sections

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today alerted a full engineer battalion to fly wherever it is needed in the flood stricken areas of eastern states.

The 87th engineer construction battalion at Fort Belvoir, Va., has been placed under the operational control of the Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Va., and is ready to fly at a moment's notice, the Army said. The battalion has 760 officers and men. Army aircraft from Fort Bragg, N. C., have been ordered to stand by to carry out the airlift.

Sudan Troops Mutiny

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Three southern provinces of the Sudan were under a state of emergency today after a mutiny in two companies of the Sudan defense force.

The government announced that at least one officer had been killed in the outbreak at Torit Thursday. Troops were rushed to the isolated village, 25 miles from the border of the British East African protectorate of Uganda.

Three Youths, Girls Held in Theater Holdup

By The Associated Press

A 15-year-old girl and a 20-year-old youth have been charged with armed robbery in the holdup of a Van Wert theater.

Van Wert County Sheriff W. L. Clay said he filed charges late yesterday against Harold Cavenger, 20, of Lakeview, and the 15-year-old Russells Point girl. The two are being held at Bellefontaine, where they were captured by Sheriff Fred Forester, Clay said.

Clay said two other youths and two girls also are believed to have been involved in the theater holdup last Tuesday. The four are being held at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, and Clay said he has asked Iowa authorities to hold them for him.

The two young men and one of two girls are being held in Mount Pleasant accused of robbing a service station there of $73. The other girl was being held in juvenile quarters at Burlington.

They were arrested yesterday about two hours after the holdup at a roadblock near Fairfield. They were identified as Joe Simmons, 22; his wife, Betty, 20; Jim Patterson, 23, and his girl friend, Phillis McGee, 15, all of near Lakeview, Ohio.

Sheriff Russell K. Van Tuyl said Patterson and Simmons were armed with .22 caliber revolvers. The four were riding in a car reported stolen Thursday in Illinois.

Authorities, alerted by radio, spotted the youths' car shortly after the holdup and gave chase. The quartet surrendered after one shot was fired in the air.

Simmons and Patterson were charged with robbery with aggrevation and their bond set at $1,000 each. Simmons' wife was held on $750 bond, charged with being an accomplice. The McGee girl was turned over to juvenile authorities and moved to Burlington where there are juvenile quarters.

Clay said Cavenger told him he sat in a car with the three girls while the other two youths held up the theater with .22 caliber revolvers.

Clay said Cavenger told him the group then went to Owensboro, Ky. where a drug store and a liquor store were held up. After that the group split up. Clay quoted Cavenger as saying, with Patterson and Simons heading west after buying a car in Logansport, Ind.

Program To Be Expanded

$20,000 Fund Drive Planned by Baseball for Boys Officials

Marion's Baseball for Boys Commission today announced plans for a $20,000 expansion of the youth program in the city.

Growing enthusiasm on the part of local boys and their parents have forced the need for expanded facilities, Charles Morbitt, commission president said. A fund raising committee has been organized to collect the money needed for the expansion. The money would be used for remodeling of present facilities and for the construction of new ball fields.

INCLUDED IN THE GIANT expansion program would be two new baseball diamonds. One would be for two additional four-team Little Leagues. The diamond would be constructed adjacent to the present Robert Scott diamond. The diamond would be built at an estimated cost of $6,000 and would be equipped with a chain link fence, backstop, dugouts and field house with complete toilet facilities.

An additional $6,000 would be spent in construction of a Pony League diamond on W. Fairground St. at the site of the veterans' housing unit. Morbitt reported $800 had been spent to date at that site for grading and dirt fill. About 75 hours of labor have been donated. Grading work was performed by the Huber-Warco Co. and the Marion Street and Alley Department.

The new diamond also would be equipped with a four-foot chain link fence, field house, flag pole, tile, sand, grass, water lines and bleachers. It would be lighted as would the new Little League diamond.

The additional money needed in the drive would be used on work at the present diamonds, Morbitt added. Work at Robert Scott field will include the enlarged backstop, 75 tons of sand, grass seed and tiling in the outfield and dugouts.

The Lincoln Park project will include a new flagpole to serve the entire area, new backstop, remodeled dugouts and repairs on grandstand and bleacher seats. The old wooden fence has already been removed and replaced with a six-foot chain link fence around the entire playing area.

Heading the bond committee is Tom Clark, Baseball for Boys Commission member. The committee is formulating plans to call on Marion's industrial firms for assistance. Also to be contacted are labor organizations, service groups and fraternal orders.

"CONSIDERABLE SUPPORT also will be needed from the general public," Morbitt declared.

Officers of the local group say that with the completion of the proposed projects, a total of 800 boys would be included in the program, playing with 24 teams. Currently 15 teams are included in the program and can accommodate only around 400 youths.

Morbitt said, "Because of the tremendous interest shown in our program we have decided to expand our facilities. Present facilities are not adequate in as much as there are not enough playing fields for league action and practice sessions." He pointed out that most of the boys in the city could be accommodated after the expansion.

"Baseball for Boys was organized four years ago," a league official said. When the first Little League action was started, games were played on the Lincoln Park diamond. Since that time, the commission has expanded its program and constructed a new field, Robert Scott Field, especially for Little League play. The Lincoln Park diamond has been used solely for Pony League and Teen League play since. A Pony League field has been started and the Lincoln Park area has been revamped. In four years of operation, the commission has spent approximately $24,000. Morbitt pointed out that all permanent improvements made at the park area remain in the city park system as property of the Park Board.

The money used in the program came from game

Football Drills Opened Here

GRIDDERS BEGIN. Football practice opened this morning at Harding and St. Mary High Schools here. Both coaches, newcomer Gordon Larson at Harding and Ray Robbins at St. Mary, face rugged rebuilding tasks before their season openers on Sept. 16. Graduation ripped into both squads. At Harding, nine lettermen returned and Robbins greeted 11.

Mossi and Narleski Save Garcia In 11-Inning Duel With Athletics

Dale Mitchell, Kiner Collect Pinch Singles

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ray Narleski and Don Mossi put on another demonstration last night of how they keep the Cleveland Indians crowding for another American League pennant.

The two young relief pitchers pulled Mike Garcia out of a terrible 10th inning jam last night, and the Indians went on to beat Kansas City 2-1 in the 11th inning.

It looked like the Athletics would surely break up the 1-1 ball game, as Enos Slaughter smacked a double to open the 10th, and Elmer Valo followed with an infield single. To make things worse, shortstop George Strickland's wild throw to first on Valo's grounder allowed Slaughter to take third.

With nobody out and men on first and third, Manager Al Lopez called on Mossi for the 45th time. Mossi fanned Harry Simpson.

Then Lopez summoned Narleski for the 46th time, with a couple of righthanded batters coming up.

Narleski threw practically nothing but strikes at Hector Lopez, who fouled off a batch of them before waving at strike three. Then the righthanded fireballer got Jim Finigan to bounce into a force at second base, leaving Slaughter stranded at third.

The Indians threatened in the 10th, when Bob Avila doubled with two out and Tom Gorman purposely passed Gene Woodling. But Gorman got Vic Wertz, who had hit safely in his previous three appearances, on an outfield fly.

Narleski set down the Athletics with dispatch in the 11th on two popups and an outfield fly. The Indians then gave him his eighth victory against no defeats, when, with two out Hal Naragon and pinch hitters Ralph Kiner and Dale Mitchell hit successive singles.

The victory kept the Indians in third place, percentage points behind the Chicago White Sox and a game behind the New York Yankees. Both the White Sox

Brethren Retains First Place In Church League Standings

Church of the Brethren's Church League leaders remained at the top of the heap in play at Garfield Park last night.

The loop pace setters downed Greenwood 13-3 for victory No. 6 in nine starts and Trinity defeated Epworth 11-5 to stay a half game behind Church of the Brethren. Greenwod's loss dropped it out of a second place tie with Trinity.

R. Ballinger threw a four-hit job at Greenwood and won behind a 12-hit Brethren attack.

Both squads traded single runs in the second, then the Brethren nine came up with nine in the second on six hits, two walks and a hit batsman. Greenwood added single runs in the third and fourth while the winners tallied three more times in the fifth.

Miley was the Greenwood hurler. He gave up a pair of doubles and a triple to B. Young who scored three runs. Gamble, J. Ballinger and Gay all pounded out two hits.

Two runs in the fifth and four in the sixth proved to be Trinity's final margin over Epworth.

The losers came up with four markers in the second but Trinity came back in their half of the frame with five. Epworth's final run was scored in the sixth.

England held the losers to six hits while Dan Day of Epworth was tagged for eight.

F. Darnell pounded out three of Epworth's six hits. McCrery also collected three hits for the winners while Mulviane singled and homered, Gherman punched out a pair of hits and Bill Trimmer homered. Trimmer's four-bagger was called the longest clout of the season by softball fans. It was hit deep into left center field.

Six Races Planned At Speedway Here

A heavy field of cars is expected Sunday at the Marion Speedway for the regular program of strictly stock car races.

Many drivers from Upper Sandusky, Richwood, Galion, LaRue and other areas have signified their intention of driving.

A six-race schedule is booked. The events will include three heat races, a consolation event, the figure eight and a 20-lap feature.

An oiling project has been completed at the oval and the dust problem has been whipped, a spokesman for the track reported. Gates at the speedway will open at 1 p.m. with the first race getting under way at 3 p.m.

Slops Dodgers

Roberts Wins 20th, Equals Modern Pitching Records

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Robin Roberts pitched the National League back into the headlines Friday night—shoving the American League race into the shadows for the moment—as he matched the record of four modern-era baseball immortals by winning 20 games in six consecutive seasons.

To do it, the Philadelphia ace out-dueled Brooklyn's big Don Newcombe for the second time in six days, beating the league-leading Dodgers 3-2.

Only Lefty Grove, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson and Mordecai (Three Finger) Brown—all Hall of Famers—had managed the six-year success since 1900.

The battle between Roberts and Newcombe (18-4) at Philadelphia and its record-equaling climax took the play from the AL scrap, which remained unchanged as all four contenders won.

New York's Yankees maintained a full game lead over Chicago and Cleveland by whipping Baltimore 8-0 behind Whitey Ford's two-hitter. The White Sox stayed three percentage points up on Cleveland by defeating Detroit 3-0 while the Indians went 11 innings to edge Kansas City 2-1.

Boston, still 3½ games shy, walloped Washington 8-0.

Roberts, the meticulous right-hander combined his usual control with tight fielding support and some luck to win No. 20. He walked only one, but gave seven hits—one Roy Campanella's 27th homer—and needed three double-plays to hold Brooklyn's lead to 2-0 going into the eighth.

Then Newcombe, beaten by the same score by Roberts last Sunday, gave way. After checking the Phils on two hits and retiring 15 men in order, the Dodger right-

Palmer Leads by Five In Canadian Golf Play

TORONTO (AP) — Arnold Palmer, who abdicated the United States amateur golf title to try his luck with the professionals, has a golden opportunity today to win his first top-money prize.

With a five-stroke lead over the field, a man-size blow-up by the 25-year-old Palmer seemed about the only thing that could keep him from taking the $15,000 Canadian Open.

Four players have hit homers with the bases loaded in a World Series game. They are Earl Smith of the Indians (1920), Tony Lazzeri of the Yanks (1936), Gil McDougald of the Yanks (1951) and Mickey Mantle of the Yanks (1953).

Rookie Outshines Walker, Lions Lose

DALLAS (AP) — Ted Wegert, who bypassed college on the way to professional football, won the glory—and Doak Walker, who got a college education, profited financially Friday night as the Philadelphia Eagles upset the Detroit Lions 14-8.

Wegert, a rookie in pro experience but who played four years in the Navy—ran the Lions ragged in scoring both touchdowns and keeping the Eagles unbeaten along the National Professional League exhibition trail.

He did it on Doak Walker night in the Cotton Bowl when the former Southern Methodist University All-America and for five years a star with the pro Lions was honored.

The fans gave him a $10,000 automobile and other things in a half-time ceremony and the Doaker wept.

Junior High School Grid Meetings Set Tuesday

All football candidates at Marion's three junior high schools have been asked to report Tuesday at 7 p.m. to their respective schools.

It will be the first meeting of the year for the junior high gridders. The calls were issued by George Whitehead of Edison, Marion Waits of Taft and Don Zeisler of Eber Baker.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching — Robin Roberts, Phillies, out-dueled 18-game winner Don Newcombe to beat Brooklyn 3-2 on seven hits and tie modern record with six consecutive seasons of 20 or more victories.

Batting—Walt Dropo, White Sox, powered two-run homer to break scoreless deadlock in fourth inning as Chicago kept pennant-race pace with 3-0 decision over Detroit.

TENNIS TIME at Harding High School
Monday afternoon your Vance reporter happened by Harding High School and noticed some youngsters playing tennis on the new courts. Bonnie Krohe of 386 Brightwood Dr. and a friend were playing a set. At the other end of the court were Jeff Wise of 155 Forest Lawn Blvd. and Glen Dalton of 611 Windsor. Tennis is a rapidly expanding sport in Marion. Youngsters like these are finding out what a wonderful time they can have.

'Home Stretch' Is Suggested For More Space

Larger Living Area Is Sometimes Possible With Present Quarters

Houses are not made of rubber, but they can be stretched. If you want more space, size up your present home's possibilities before looking for a larger one. Almost any house can be expanded, no matter what its size and shape, or how small the lot

Operation "home stretch" can be accomplished in a number of ways; by adding a wing, enclosing a room between house and garage, finishing the attic or basement, or even raising the roof to gain a whole floor.

Comfort Is Basic

Whatever expansion plan you choose, keep these pointers in mind

The added living or sleeping space should be as comfortable as the rest of the house It should be cool in summer and warm in winter, without costing a fortune in fuel or electricity That means insulating both walls and ceilings to assure a comfortable temperature all year round, and lower fuel bills during the winter.

Mineral wool can be blown in after the room is finished but it's easier to install it in batt form during construction. Batts or blankets of mineral wool are neat packages made to fit snugly in the spaces between studs and joists. To save money, a homeowner can easily install the insulation himself.

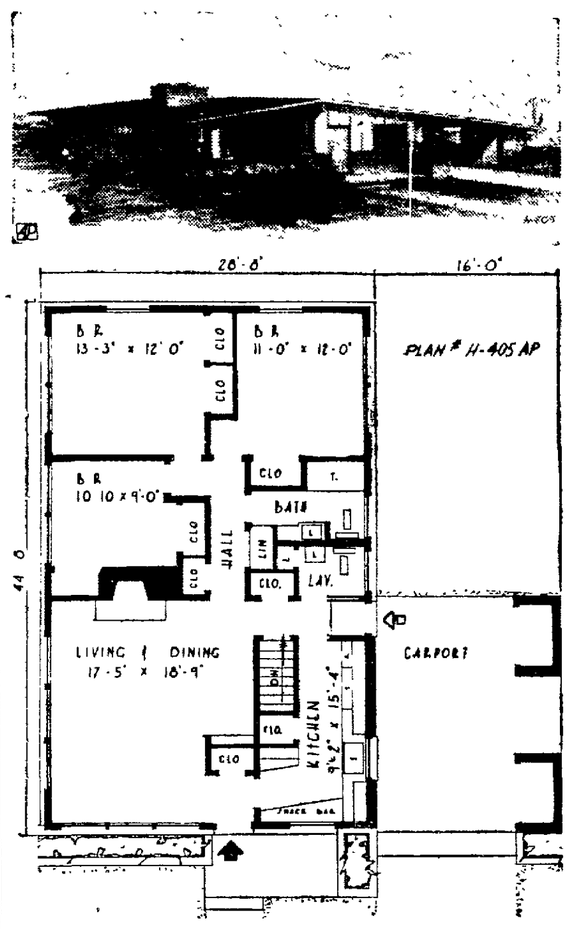
A point to keep in mind is that any furnace produces only a set amount of heat and often won't be big enough to take care of the added space. As an economical solution for this problem, one suggestion is some kind of auxiliary heating equipment—a wall heater that fits between wall studs, a floor furnace, or a room heater.

Snug Windows Needed

Wood windows are important from the standpoint of room comfort. Factory-made ponderosa pine window units consist of frames and sash, precision-fit and fully weatherstripped to minimize air leakage and drafts. The more windows in the room, the more vital is airtightness and the woods' natural insulating quality.

Before building an attic room, thoroughly inspect the underside of the roof deck for dampness. If there are leaks and the contractor advises a new weathertight asphalt shingle roof, it is far better to do it before tackling interior work.

House Fits Narrow Lot



A SMART DESIGN for a narrow lot, this house is less than 29 feet wide without its carport which gives it a low and broad appearance. Two brick tool storage closets support the carport roof. A ledge rock fireplace is suggested for the living room. This is plan H-405AP by the Homograf Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 1,281 square feet and contains 23 155 cubic feet with basement.

Old Card Table Makes Handy Tray in Sickroom

URBANA, Ill. (INS) — That old card table you are just about to throw away can come in handy.

Mrs. Millicent Martin, child development specialist at the University of Illinois, says the card table comes in handy in amusing children who are bedridden with colds or old-fashioned tummy-aches.

Mrs. Martin says the card table — with the legs cut off — makes a solid play surface for a child who is bedded down and needs amusement. The table surface can be used for keeping toys handy or as a support for coloring books and playing games.

REMOVE PAINT

To remove paint from silk or cotton garments, place damaged spot over vessel and pour boiling vinegar over it. A small amount of vinegar will do the job.

2 Small Furnaces Better Than 1 Unit

For a large house, two or more small furnaces with zoned distribution of heat are always better than one large one, says one Kansas Heating and Air Conditioning Institute.

In a zone system, one furnace might heat the first floor, with the other furnace for the second floor. Or one side of the dwelling might be on one furnace, with the second furnace for the other side.

Each furnace should be located as near as possible to the zone it serves. The heating engineers point out that when this is done the heating pipes, or "runs," which carry the warm air to the rooms, are shorter than they would be with one big central furnace. Less heat then is lost between the furnace and the room outlets, and cost of operation usually is less.

More sensitive temperature control thermostats enable the heat in each zone to be regulated independently of the others.

Back Seat Tables Will Keep Children Occupied on Trip

Are you traveling with youngsters this summer Here's an idea for keeping them happy in the car.

Give them a back seat table on which to play.

Take a piece of ¼-inch tempered pressed wood as wide as the car and long enough to cover the back seat and space between the seats. Prop it up against a suitcase or corrugated carton. The youngsters then can ride in comfort and have a play area for running their toy cars or playing games.

The board will save the upholstery and prevent the youngsters from falling. Obtain the panel from a lumber yard

Other ways in which this material can make your automobile trip easier

Use a board cut to fit on top of the suitcases in the trunk. On the board store the extra coats, jackets, slacks and other clothing that become wrinkled when packed in a suitcase. Cover the lot with a plastic cloth and tie lightly. This "floating shelf" will ride beautifully and keep the garments in wearable condition.

Another useful item on the trip, is a clipboard for holding maps.

Dodge Reports Record Is Set In Construction

July Building Activity Shows Net Increase Compared With 1954

NEW YORK — Contract awards for future construction in the 37 states east of the Rockies as measured by the Dodge Reports set a new high record for any July, F. W. Dodge Corporation announced today. The total was $2,271,537,000, up 24 per cent from July 1954.

The first seven months set a new high for that period, $14,254,308,000, up 29 per cent from 1954. It fell only a shade short of matching the first nine months of last year when the total was $14,477,181,000.

Nonresidential led the way in percentage gains over last year. The July figure was the third highest ever attained in this Dodge category. It was $892,629,000, up 39 per cent from last year. This is largely the kind of construction that will be going into place and pouring out dollars for months ahead, extending into the holiday buying season and into next year.

For July the residential total was $959,020,000, up 29 per cent from July 1954. Public and private works and utilities totalled $419,888,000, down 7 per cent.

Seven month totals were: nonresidential, $5,025,142,000, up 24 per cent over the same period last year; residential, $6,415,750,000, up 36 per cent; and public and private works and utilities, $2,813,416,000, up 22 per cent.

POPULATION INCREASING

Urban and rural populations of the United States are increasing at approximately the same rate, the Census Bureau reported recently, according to a story in the weekly newsletter of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Between April, 1950, and April, 1954, the rural civilian population increased by 6.3 per cent, and the corresponding figure for urban civilian population was 5.6 per cent.

YOUR HOME... Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

There appears to be a general impression that any trouble with a chimney is difficult and expensive to remedy. As a matter of fact, the average chimney is a fairly solid piece of masonry and that the trouble can only be from that part of the chimney which is outside of the house.

The first thing to do is examine the flashings, clean them and coat them with roof cement. The next step is to brush down the brickwork with a wire brush, point up any plainly open joints with mortar, allow the repairs to dry and then coat the brickwork thoroughly with a good silicone-based, colorless, waterproofing paint.

The final step is to examine the chimney cap—the flat surface immediately around the flue-opening on the top of the chimney. Invariably, cracks will be found in this, and they should be filled with mortar, allowed to dry, and then the cap should be given two coats of the same waterproofing.

The cost of the above operation will not exceed $5 or $6 for the material and the time should not exceed three or four hours for the average man can be made tight against weather with reasonable ease.

Many homeowners who have stained wallpaper, spotted ceilings and an indication of water seeping out of the chimney clean-out in the basement, are inclined to blame the roof or the plumbing rather than the chimney. This is usually because the water-stain is not close to the chimney structure, but the truth is that a leak is unpredictable. The actual leak may be in one place, and the water may follow along a beam and appear on a wall or ceiling 15 or 20 feet away from the actual source.

When it has been fairly well established that a leak is from the chimney, it stands to reason

Ceiling Tiles

Tips on Repair of Homes

By ANDREW C. LANG
Associated Press Staff Writer

DO ... remember that ceiling tile is made of a fibrous, porou substance. Allow new tiles to become acclimated by opening the carton a day or two before their intended use and leave them in the room where they will be installed.

DO ... attach 1 x 3 furring strips at right angles to ceiling joists to provide a nailing or stapling base for the tiles.

DO ... usually start the first tile in the corner of the room, being certain that the 2 nailing tongues face the center of the room.

DO ... start the first tile in the center only when you have put up a centerstrip (either ready-made or home-made) or when you have bought tiles which do not have tongue-and-groove arrangements.

DON'T ... attach the furring strips until you have measured the ceiling to determine the width of borders. In most cases, border tiles will have to be cut.

DON'T ... forget that, while the tiles can be cut with a sharp knife, you can get a better result by using a saw.

DON'T ... jam the tiles together; a tiny, almost imperceptible space between the joints is insurance against the possibility of of buckling under expansion.

DON'T ... spoil the tiles with dirty or perspiring hands; sprinkle your hands with talcum powder.

Building Permits

Ten building permits with a total valuation of $27,669 were issued at the Marion City Clerk's office during the week of Aug. 12-18. This was below the totals for the same period last year when 15 permits for $37,610 were issued. The permits were:

New Construction

Harold Hall of 264 Bellefontaine Ave., $1,000 garage.

Myrtie Aldrich of Glendale St., $3,000 home.

Paul Duffy of Forest Lawn Blvd., $12,000 home.

Herman and Sadie Bruck of Seffner Ave., $10,000 home.

Improvements

Homer Adams of 427 Fies Ave., kitchen, $100.

L. Hopkins of 296 Franconia Ave., tool shed, $50.

Joseph LeSata of 473 N. State St., one-room addition, $500.

Gladys Fosnaugh of 250 Nye St., garage, $500.

Burke Edmonson of 270 Pennsylvania Ave., garage, $249.

Elmer J. Niskanen of 327 Edgewood Dr., porch alteration, $300.

RAISES THE ROOF

Hardwood plywood literally raises the roof in new homes developed by a Texas company of housing engineers. Ceilings in hall entrances are only seven feet high so the ceilings are paneled in birch plywood polished to a mirrorlike finish. This provides an optical illusion of greater height rather than the closed-in feeling a solid color would impose.

Elegant Sense Added to Life By Using Wood

Architect Says More Items Are Appealing To Feeling of Pattern

There's nothing like wood to give an "elegant sense to life," according to one of the nation's leading architects. Ralph Walker, New York architect and past president of the American Institute of Architects, called for a greater use of wood in schools, homes, and auditoriums. He said that the "inherent beauty of wood is apparent from seeing it, feeling it, and sometimes even from smelling it."

Walker urged that the lumber industry work closely with architects "to help us get fine finishes in homes."

"No one," the architect observed, "cares about the past of a piece of steel or a lamp bulb. Only wood becomes a beloved antique Only wood can be so beautiful in its natural quality that you want to touch it."

Citing the long life of medieval Japanese wooden houses and temples, and of wood windows in houses dating from pre-Shakespearean England, Walker squelched the idea that wood is "less permanent" than other materials.

Wood Proves 'Durable'

"Wood," he said, "is one of the most durable building materials. Four and five hundred years ago, the Japanese did nothing to the wood. They permitted it to weather, and many buildings are still in excellent condition."

Today, the architect pointed out, wood's durability and good service are increased by man-made treatments, such as better paints and other finishes. He singled out wood windows and exterior panel doors. These are generally made of ponderosa pine, a strong, light wood which is treated with a water-repellent, preservative chemical solution. This treatment helps windows open easily without sticking, and close tightly, without rattling loosely in the frame or letting in air and dust.

White Kitchen Out

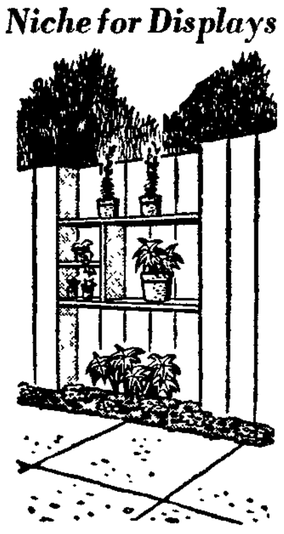
Walker predicged an end "very shortly" to the design concept that "everything smooth is delightful." Even now, he said, the "cold white laboratory kind of kitchen is being rapidly replaced by warm friendly kitchens in which wood is used generously."

The wood grain in such common household articles as pine kitchen cabinets "appeals to our instictive feeling for pattern. . . . We get bored pretty quickly with anything that presents an unbroken area of plain white or any other color. Wood has the warmth and surface interest that make us love it all the more as it gets older," the architect said.

QUIET, EFFICIENT

Nylon and other type drawer glides, rubber or plastic bumpers for doors and drawers, and insulation of doors and drawer fronts have made quality - constructed steel kitchen cabinets quiet and efficient to use. The steel, of course, doesn't warp, swell, or stick, guaranteeing always-smooth operation of doors and drawers.

Niche for Displays



WONDERING HOW to remove that blank, uninteresting stare from your fence or patio screen. A little niche like this set into the fence the depth of a board, makes a charming display shelf for potted plants and garden sculpture. Flowers and shurbs are particularly enhanced by a fence background of natural or stained western red cedar or fir, and even inexpensive grades of these woods resist weather admirably and blend beautifully with your landscaping.

Growing Pains

August Is a Good Month For Planting Perennials

By ALBERT S. FULLING
Associated Press Staff Writer

Perennials are an integral part of any garden plan. Perennials are the plants which, with reasonabl care, give you bloom year after year with certain limitations.

They may be started from seed. Early August is a good time to get under way. Early spring, before April, is another favorite perennial planting time.

However, to start from seed in early August, the open garden soil is too warm for good germination of most seeds. A coldframe which can be shaded, controlled and properly ventilated is ideal.

Perhaps, if you would rather skip the seed work, you can readily purchase plants from the nearby nursery, greenhouse or farm supplier.

THE SEEDS planted early in August will be ready for bloom next spring. Usually the seedlings can winter in the frame without transplanting until spring. Another time for coldframe plantings of perennial seeds is late in November. The seeds will remain dormant until spring.

The seeds may be planted directly on the soil in the frame, in seed flats, or in pots sunk with the tops almost level with the soil Generally, either seed flats or pots will give you more maneuverability.

Plan for your perennials to go into beds of their own.

There are perennials which will bloom in early spring, late spring, and various phases of summer and fall. They grow to varying heights, so you should adjust your plantings to give you continual bloom through the season as well as graduated height in the beds. Your seed packets or seed catalogue will give you the clues. Be sure to check whether your choices need full sun, shade or part shade before planting in beds.

—:—

AN OLD FAVORITE early spring perennial is the primrose. Lily-of-the-valley is a mid spring bloomer, while the Shasta daisy, pinks, iris, Oriental poppy, sweet William or delphinium will give you bloom from late spring through early summer.

For fall flowers, there are the ever-popular chrysanthemum and the rose-mallow.

These are just a few of the usually hardy perennials.

Winter protection in northern climes requires a protective mulch over the perennial bed to prevent heaving from alternate freezing and thawing.

Through the years, there will be need for occasional replacement of plants, for while the group is dubbed perennial, it normally is not perpetual.

Women Help Men On Home Projects

The do-it-yourself trend is turning into a "do-it-together" movement because the housewife has joined the team.

Hardware and building materials dealers report that sales increasingly are to women who come into their shops and yards for "handyman" materials and tools. Women who before merely planned the work for their husbands to do, today pitch in with the actual work of painting, wallpapering, laying floor tile, putting up wallboard and ceiling panels, installing insulation, building patios, barbecues, and lawn furniture.

"Working together gets jobs done faster and saves money. In addition, women express satisfaction in doing their part to improve their home's appearance and livability.

Women are cautioned not to attempt heavy work. Light jobs where they act as handyman's helper are advised.

Closet Is Versatile

AN ENTRANCE - WIDE closet may be converted into a linen closet by installing shallow built - in drawers. This allows linens to be sorted and kept wrinkle-free

Hardboard of the tempered pressed wood type makes excellent drawer bottoms and front dust-protectors which serve as drawer pulls. These parts are nailed or screwed to 1 by 4-inch frames.

A laundry hamper, built with perforated hardboard, and a space for a tank type vacuum cleaner, or other household appliance can be provided below.

Lions at Prospect Set Annual Bazaar

Arrangements are being made by the Prospect Lions Club for a bazaar Aug. 26 at Prospect Community Park for the benefit of the organization's community projects. Entertainment will include midway attractions and a special feature will be a cake baking contest. General chairman is Harry Waxler. Ralph Gaster is club president.

Judges for the contest will be Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, home economist for the Ohio Edison Co. in Marion, Miss Ruth Gorby, Marion County home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Marjorie McKibben, Prospect High School home economics teacher. Weldon Rouse is contest chairman.

A permanent project of the club is the sight-saving program in which eyeglasses are purchased for needy children with defective vision, and contributions are made to the eye research work sponsored by the Ohio Lions Association. Other community assistance has included purchase of football uniforms for the high school, school band uniforms, donations to Little League baseball, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts troops and financial help to the Prospect kindergarten.

Outdoor Lights Pay Off With Beauty and Safety

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

If you ever stepped on a rake in the dark and saw that flash that occurrs when the handle hits you between the eyes, you can probably see why so many people are going in for outdoor lighting around their homes.

A friend of ours recently floodlighted his entire grounds after he stepped on a roller skate in his driveway. And floodlighting is becoming quite the thing to discourage prowlers. Only point is that the bulbs should be shielded as much as possible from direct view. Placing the lights under the eaves at four corners of the house is good practice.

Floodlights, or any other kind of outdoor lighting, should not be directed at a neighbor's house any more than toward your own house. About the height of bad suburban manners is to plant a private street light in your front yard in such a way that it will spoil your neighbor's relaxation on his own porch or in his own yard.

ACCENT LIGHTING of gardens and landscaping is another comparatively new wrinkle. In fact, the ladies at their garden clubs have discovered that electric lights used at night over flower beds or vegetable gardens stimulate plant growth. They say their flowers grow faster.

Well, garden decorative lighting is a matter of personal taste. The best idea is to use a few lights, rather widely spaced. This creates points of interest rather than a monotonous washed-out look of floodlighting. Such lights can be directed up into trees and shrubs as well as down from above.

As for bugs—you'll have to find out about them by experimenting. One thing you can count on is that yellow bug-lights do not actually keep insects away. They simply do not attract as many bugs as white lights do.

OUTDOOR LIVING is probably responsible for the big spread in the use of electric power in the yard. Porches, patios and terraces are now commonly illuminated. And the increasingly popularity of electric lawn mowers, hedge clippers, power-operated barbecue spits, hot-bed heating cables and what not, means a big need for outdoor power outlets.

The main problem in the use of electric wiring outdoors is to keep it dry. It used to be that expensive lead-sealed conduits were needed for all outdoor purposes. Plastic has simplified all of this. You can now get wiring known as Type-UF cable which can be laid in a trench in the ground without any further protection than the insulation it carries.

This type of cable has tough hide that will defy moisture, oil, acid, alkali and organic decay. It is tough enough to withstand any normal impact or abrasion. The depth of the trench you can lay it in depends on location. If you merely want to run it across the lawn, a couple of inches of depth—directly under the sod—is good enough. But if there is any chance that you may be digging in the area, make the trench 12 to 18 inches deep for safety.

An electrical conduit is still needed for the point where you bring this cable out of the ground. Keep the conduit from wobbling by strapping it to a tree or by embedding it in concrete in the ground.

PERMANENT wiring is always best, indoors or outdoors. It presents no hazards and will last much longer than troublesome extension cords. We asked the electrical engineers for some tips on outdoor wiring. Here are their suggestions:

1. Lights and outlets mounted on the house should be connected with the indoor wiring system.

2. For lights and outlets in the yard, provide a separate 115-volt circuit. If you expect to use many lights at the same time, several circuits may be needed.

3. Switches for the outside lights should be installed indoors or at some other spot permanently protected from the weather.

4. If temporary lights are used, they should be equipped with heavy-duty rubber-neoprene cords with weatherproof plugs, receptacles and sockets. Never use lamp cord or telephone cable. They are just too dangerous.

5. Always use weatherproof electrical boxes, outlets and fixtures.

Frightening Shirt

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Tony Pizzo, unofficial goodwill ambassador for Ybor City, Tampa's Latin Quarter, wasn't his usual gay self at a banquet for visiting Cubans. He explained he had just received the result from the mass X-rays conducted by the tuberculosis association. He was advised to have a thorough medical examination.

The next day Tony was all smiles when he showed up to bid the visiting delegation goodby.

When X-rayed, he wore a shirt with an elaborate design in metallic threads. The metal showed up on the plate as a large dark mass in the chest area, but his lungs were perfect.

New York City Facing Loss of Dodgers, Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City today faced the alarming possibility of becoming a "ghost" baseball town housing just one major league team.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have threatened to move and Brooks' President Walter O'Malley predicted that if his club pulls out the New York Giants will, too. O'Malley pointed out that the Dodgers have drawn 350,000 spectators to the Polo Grounds in 11 games this year while the six other National League clubs have attracted 390,000 fans in 48 games.

"If one team goes, the other will go," said O'Malley. "It's unlikely that one team or the other would move."

O'Malley tossed a bombshell into the baseball world earlier in the week when he announced the Dodgers would play seven home games in Jersey City next year. He followed that with a threat to pull out of Brooklyn if a suitable site is not found for a new park.

With that in mind, city officials, headed by Mayor Robert Wagner, called a meeting Friday.

Out of it came the following:

1. O'Malley is serious in his threat to pull out of Brooklyn.

2. The Giants in the person of owner Horace Stoneham are behind O'Malley.

3. O'Malley's last hope for a site in downtown Brooklyn was shattered.

4. Talk of a great municipal stadium was revived.

5. City Hall is worried.

"We are willing to stand the gaff until 1958," O'Malley told the mayor in discussing declining revenues, "but not past it."

Wagner said he would ask the Board of Estimators to appropriate $50,000 to study the problem.

Billy Pierce brought the White Sox home safe, holding the Tigers on six hits while striking out six and walked one while Walt Dropo delivered a two-run homer off Steve Gromek in the fourth. The Tigers now are 10½ games behind.

Sammy White got the Red Sox rolling with a sixth-inning homer that broke up Frank Sullivan's duel with Bob Porterfield. Sullivan won his 15th as the Bosox got four in the seventh off Porterfield and three in the eighth off Dean Stone.

In the other National League games, Del Crandall and Hank Aaron each slugged two-run homers as Milwaukee beat Chicago 7-0 and moved to within 13 games of Brooklyn; Vern Law held on after homers by Willie Mays (38) and Johnny Antonelli and Pittsburgh rallied to beat the New York Giants 8-3, and Cincinnati spotted St. Louis three runs in the first before Johnny Klippstein choked off the spree in relief to win 7-5

Redlegs' Rally Nets 7-5 Win Against Cards

CINCINNATI (AP)—A small portion of catcher Smoky Burgess' palm was discolored today through the artistry of Johnny Klippstein's fast ball.

Klippstein kept powering the ball into Smoky's mitt for a 7-5 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals last night. The righthander was sent into the game in the first inning as a reliefer and stayed around until the end for his fifth victory in 12 decisions.

Relies on Speed

Burgess said Klippstein showed great stuff, with enough zip on the ball to win 20 games. The 27-year-old former Chicago Cub hurler said he threw mostly fast balls and sliders at the Cardinals, with very few curves tossed in. He credited the use of the slider in the last month for a change in what had been a mediocre performance.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts called for Klippstein after starter Joe Nuxhall gave up three runs on four singles and a sacrifice fly in one-third of an inning. Klippstein promptly stopped the splurge and pitched four-hit ball the rest of the route.

The seventh place Cardinals got to Johnny for a run on two doubles in the second inning and another tally in the seventh on two walks and a single. Walks were Klippstein's big source of trouble. He issued passes to the first two men he faced in the third. Then he retired 12 Cardinals in a row.

Both teams got eight hits but the Reds combined theirs with more effectiveness and with Cardinal blunders. The power was supplied by Gus Bell, who hit his 22nd homer of the season with Wally Post aboard, and by Post, who socked his 30th home run of the season.

Johnny Temple made the most of his opportunities. He singled in the first inning, grabbed second on a wild pitch, strode for third on a passed ball and tallied on Ted Kluszewski's ground out. Temple, a man who prefers singles to extra-base hits, came up with a double in the second to raise his average temporarily to the magic .300 mark. Thus for a time the Reds carried five regulars above that mark. However, he didn't do a thing the rest of the way, dropping his average to a highly respectable .298. After Temple doubled with two away, Burgess, Klu and Post hit consecutive singles for two runs.

Error Helps

In the third, Chuck Harmon was safe on Ken Boyer's error. He advanced to second on a fielder's choice and went to third when pitcher Paul LaPalme threw past the bag in an attempt to pick him off. Harmon scored on McMillan's single to left.

Joe Black, whose six victories include one over the Cardinals, will pitch for the Reds tonight while Luis Arroyo will be on the mound for the Cardinals. The two second division clubs will complete the three-game series tomorrow with a single contest.

This Deer Knows Best Time To Quit Running

THAYER, Mo. (AP)—Down here in the Missouri Ozarks the countryside dogs frequently gang up to run whitetail deer. But the deer are getting smart, too.

The other day a dog pack was bellowing on the track of a spike-horn buck. The tired animal veered to bypass a farmer fixing fence. But the farmer, Bud Chronister, straightened up and hollered:

"Hey, boy! Where do you think you're going"

The fagged out deer walked up to Chronister and docilely allowed the farmer to load him into a pickup truck. Then he rested up in the farmer's barn, eating hay and waiting for the dogs to depart before returning to his own environment.

Roberts

hander was smacked for singles by Eddie Waitkus, Jim Greengrass and Andy Seminick and his lead was trimmed to 2-1.

In the ninth, Newk didn't even get a man out, and enabled the tying run to score on his own throwing error. Then Willie Jones laced a single to left, driving in the winning run and handing Newk who didn't walk a batter, his fourth loss in a row.

The 29-year-old Roberts, who came up in 1948 and since 1950 has won 20, 21, 28, 23 and 23, made it tough all around for Newcombe. The Dodger ace, a hitter in his own right, fanned twice.

Pierce Nips Gromek

The Yankees bombed Baltimore with home runs by Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle (his 31st) for a 2-0 lead in the first. Only Dave Philley's great stab saved Jim Wilson from giving up three homers in succession as Yogi Berra lined one toward the right field stands between the McDougald and Mantle blasts.

collections, annual program sales, tag day sales, share ticket drives and sponsors fees.

"The program is able to meet current seasonal expenses," Morbitt reported, "but we do not have the money to add much needed facilities."

By building a Pony League diamond, it would be possible for Marion's American Legion nine to use Lincoln Park as often as it needed, Morbitt pointed out. This has not been possible in the past.

"The expanded program would also make possible the formation of an independent team in the future," the commission head added. "Although not connected with our program, such a team would find a full-sized diamond at its disposal. The commission would be happy to see the formation of such a team to provide further play for our Teen League graduates," he said.

Anyone interested in contributing to the fund drive may mail their checks directly to Ellis Wilson, Baseball for Boys treasurer, at 841 S., Prospect St., Morbitt concluded.

Manager's Praise

CINCINNATI (AP)—After watching his young outfielder, Wally Post, hit several drives over the wall in batting practice, Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Redlegs said: "Post can hit the ball farther than any right handed hitter in baseball — and that includes Mickey Mantle of the Yankees."

In its 44-years basketball history, the University of North Carolina has produced only one undefeated team. In 1924, the squad was 23 and lost none.

Braves Shoot For 2 Million In Attendance

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves' ticket director today declared that the club "is a cinch" to draw two million paid admissions for the second year in a row—thanks in great measure to the absence of television cameras at County Stadium.

But William S. Eberly was more cautious when asked if he thought the gate would eclipse last year's all-time National League attendance record of 2,131,388.

Eberly said the Braves would have to average 32,670 for all 15 remaining home games to set a new league attendance standard, but only 28,000 to pass the two million mark.

That shouldn't be too difficult, he said, since there wil be seven night games during the club's final home stand early next month and Brooklyn and New York, which bring out the crowds, will be in for two games each.

Not counting today's game with the Chicago Cubs, the Braves are running 31,269 behind last year's draw at the same point on the schedule.

With Friday night's near capacity turnout of 41,569 included, the Braves have attracted 1,651,014 customers for 55 games or an average of 30,018. At this time last year the figure was 1,682,283.

Asked why the Braves—13 games out of first place—draw so well, Eberly replied:

"The main reason of course, is that we don't televise our games. Another big reason is that we have plenty of parking space at 25 cents a car."

The lots surrounding County Stadium can accommodate about 10,500 cars and will be enlarged next year to 16,000. The lots are county-owned and operated.

Brownies Plan Offensive Shift

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns open their 5-game exhibition schedule tonight in Akron's Rubber Bowl against the Green Bay Packers who go into the contest as 7-point underdogs.

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown, disappointed by his squad's loss to the College All-Stars, has juggled his lineup somewhat, mostly in the offensive ranks.

The only defense change will be at tackle where Tom Jones, 250-pound rookie from Miami (Ohio) will replace Don Colo, who broke a bone in his right hand in the All-Star game.

Among the offensive changes will be Henry Ford from the University of Pittsburgh, taking over at right half back in place of Dub Jones, scheduled for a trial at offensive end. Fred Morrison starts at fullback instead of Maurice Bassett, confined to his room all week with a bad cold. Bassett took over the first-string fullback slot last season from Morrison.

There probably will be plenty of other changes as tonight's game goes along as exhibition games give coaches their cheapest method of judging talent under fire.

The Packers already have a 31-24 victory over the New York Giants behind them on the exhibition grind.

The longest scoring run in Cotton Bowl history was Dickey Moegle's 95 - yard dash for a touchdown against Alabama on Jan. 1, 1954. That was the play in which Moegle was tackled by an over-zealous Alabama bench warmer.

Erwin Winner Of Feature at Richwood Oval

Joe Erwin came home first in the 25-lap feature last night at the Richwood Speedway. Charles Wilcox of Richwood took second with Chet Howard of Mount Gilead coming home third. J. L. Jones and Jim Hamilton, both of Richwood, battled it out for fourth and fifth.

The win last night boosted Erwin into first place in the season point standings at the Richwood track. He grabbed a slight lead over Jones, who had led up until last night's session.

Ralph Jolley won the first heat race with Lewis Williams and Larry Johnson taking second and third. Ray Hickman showed the way in the second heat, finishing ahead of Bus Henry and Chuck Otto.

Erwin also took the checkered flag in the third heat. He beat out Clayton Rogers and Charles Wilcox. In the winners handicap, Wilcox crossed the line first, trailed by Otto and Erwin.

The first consolation event went to Ted Johnson with Jones taking second and Ed Hendrickson finishing third. Jim Hamilton won the second consolation event with Glen Skinner in second and Ed Moore in third.

A special program has been set for Labor Day at the Richwood oval.

NEW WURLITZER
Electronic Piano
NOW AT SHELLHORN'S
A new concept in piano design and tone. It is a portable electronic piano. The 64-note key and action mechanism is similar to that used in a conventional piano, but it has neither strings nor sounding board. The tone is produced mechanically and amplified electronically. Just plug the extension cord into any 110 volt, AC outlet . . . and it's ready to play! The new instrument weighs approximately 70 pounds and is built into a durable, pebblac-finished carrying case. And here's another novel and remarkable feature that will suggest many educational uses . . . it can be played with earphones! When the earphones are plugged into the unit, the keyboard becomes silent and only the performer can hear it. He can play or practice for hours, any time of the day or night, without disturbing others in the house. Yet, when the earphones are removed, the instrument again becomes a full-toned piano.

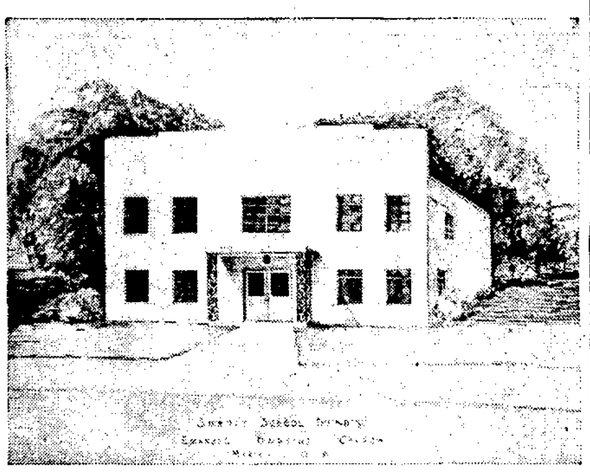
Church Sets Dedication



DEDICATION OF the Emmanuel Baptist Church educational building, construction of which was started in 1949, will be held Sunday immediately following the morning worship service. Inside work now entirely completed, the $70,000 building was fully paid for by the congregation in recent months. The dedication service was timed to coincide with the anniversary observance of the pastor, Rev. C. E. Hershey, who has completed 11 years of ministry in Marion.

Groundbreaking for the educational unit was in August, 1949, and construction was begun in the fall. The two-story concrete block building includes classrooms, a nursery which features a germicidal light for the health protection of the small children, and two offices with a heating system of radiant heat. At present the church is engaged in building another addition preparatory to construction of a new sanctuary.

To honor the pastor a homecoming service has been planned following a congregational dinner at Lincoln Park. In the evening at the church the message will be the second in a series of sermons on Bible prophecy dealing with the "tribulation period."

Mount Gilead Center Project To Cost $25,000

MOUNT GILEAD — Improvements in the Mount Gilead Recreation Center facilities would cost an estimated $25,726, it was announced this week by the Mount Gilead citizens' committee for the development of recreation facilities.

The proposed plan for the development of the school-community recreation center was developed for the committee by Arthur S. Daniels, recreation consultant, and Marion V. Packard, landscape architect, both of Columbus.

The cost would include all improvements planned for the site.

Preliminary plans were received by the citizens' committee several weeks ago. These were modified and changed by the committee and returned to Packard and Daniels for the final plans.

The committee is expected to meet again soon to discuss ways and means of raising funds to continue the project. Not all of the improvements are expected to be undertaken at once.

Estimated expenses were as follows:

Relocating the fence around the swimming pool, $1,000; enlarging the deck area around the pool, $6,000; a blacktopped parking area, $6,000; softball area including backstop and grading, $2,420; blacktopping two tennis courts, $3,150; blacktopping two hardtop game areas, $3,420; constructing walks and drives, $1,276; and general landscaping and tree planting, $2,430.

No allowance is made for additional surface drainage facilities which will be needed if the improvements are made.

Reunions

SHARPE

The sixth annual reunion of the Sharpe family was held Sunday at Lincoln Park in Marion with 49 relatives present from Mansfield, Cardington, Columbus, Washington, D. C., Green Camp and Marion. Following a picnic dinner games and contests were held in the afternoon. Daniel Townsend presided for business with Mrs. Twila Gross as secretary and treasurer. The reunion next year will be held at the same place Aug. 12.

MILLER-RICHARDS

The 24th annual reunion of the Miller and Richards families was held Sunday, at Lincoln Park with 70 relatives in attendance from Columbus, Marion, Ashley, Richwood, Xenia, Toledo, Bellefontaine, Huntsville, Delaware, Hillsboro, O., and New Orleans. Seven births and four marriages were reported during the year. Charles Miller was elected president, Ted Miller of Ashley, vice president and Lulu Smith, secretary and treasurer. The 1956 reunion will be held the second Sunday in August at Harrison Smith Park in Upper Sandusky.

Two Killed in Falls

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two men died in falls here yesterday.

One was a spray painter, John Tsangaris, 53, of Campbell, Ohio, who plunged 65 feet from a scaffolding to the floor of a building in the Valley Mould & Iron Corp. plant. He was employed by the Boyd E. Hart Painting Co. of Cleveland.

The other was Andrew Gembala, 63, Cleveland, who fell 15 feet from a ladder while helping another man trim a tree.

Religious Film Slated

A film with a scientific and religious theme, "God of Creation," will be shown tonight at the Maranatha Bible Church tent at Garfield Park. The color picture is a production of the film department of Moody Bible institute at Chicago, Ill. There will be no admission charge, Rev. Earl L. Holliday, director of the tent services, announced.

Pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church

"Therefore, if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come." II Corinthians 5:17.

Any visitor to the ruins of the Colosseum in Rome who uses his imagination can readily conceive the effect upon the assembled mob when they witnessed Christian martyrdom. Tertullian, an early church historian, writes concerning the behavior of the Roman crowds as they looked upon the death of Christians. He says we can't imagine the bloodthirstiness which gripped these people as they attempted to satisfy their craving for death. But he also writes of the uneasiness that gripped them after watching Christian people heroically die for their faith. On occasion the populace left the arena subdued by the tranquility and courage of those who had unhesitatingly laid down their lives out of love for their crucified but risen Master. Tertullian adds: "No man would be willing to die unless he knew he had the truth."

THE SAME SORT of thing happened when Stephen was stoned to death by the mob outside Jerusalem with Saul there as one of the leaders against the Christians. From the day that he witnessed Stephen's martyrdom Saul knew no rest. His hatred of the crucified Galilean and his followers grew worse. Yet he always had an uneasy feeling that he was fighting against God. He illustrates what the psychologists mean by a divided self. He could say as Faust: "Two souls, alas, dwell in my breast apart." Yet instead of making peace with God, Saul flung himself all the harder into his persecution of the Christians.

Goethe, a German philosopher, once said, "The man who acts never has a conscience no one has any conscience but the man who thinks." He might have added that some people engage in feverish activity to keep themselves from thinking. It was so with Saul.

BUT SOMETHING happened to that man, Saul, while on the way to Damascus, a city 160 miles from Jerusalem. He was brought face to face with his own conscience, his own ambitions, his pride and his God. This was the moment when Saul the Pharisee, a Jew by birth and by religion, became a new creation; for he became Paul the Apostle, a Roman citizen and the first worldwide missionary in the Christian movement.

Years later Paul wrote to the church in Corinth, "Therefore, if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come." His own life illustrated what he meant; for Paul had been recreated. Here is a spiritual miracle that defies naturalistic explanation. The merciless persecutor becomes the greatest of the apostles. The man who had made it his business to hunt down, to imprison, and to kill Christians is now the fearless advocate of the gospel which he had tried to destroy.

WE LIVE IN a day and age when we can explain all our miracles. We are too sophisticated to believe in such things. And yet here is a miracle that is an everyday happening. A person lives his life outside the church and away from the influence of Christian ideals. Then one day, through circumstances that are usually different in each case, he comes face to face with Christ. And because of this meeting he becomes a new creation, the old things are passed away and his life becomes something new and changed.

How did Paul make out in his Christian pilgrimage? He had a hard road to travel; beaten within an inch of his life at Philippi, stoned and left for dead at Lystra, torn almost limb from limb by a maddened mob at Jerusalem, shipwrecked in the Mediterranean, and at last put in one of Nero's prisons in Rome. But look what this man wrote while in the last year of his life here on earth. "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith. Therefore there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that last day."

Its getting so almost everybody in this country knows, even if only casually, somebody who has been on skis at least once.

Atomic Plant's Wastes Help Sterilize Sewage

WASHINGTON (AP)—Waste products from atomic power plants offer a possible source of material for sewage sterilization, the Army Corps of Engineers' research and development laboratories announced.

Gamma-radiation from radioactive substances has proven capable in six months of research of sterilizing water-borne sewage without activating or leaving residual radiation in the treated materials. The experiments were conducted by the laboratories at Fort Belvoir, Va., in conjunction with the Oak Ridge National Laboratory at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Previous work with the deadly radiation has shown that it also can be used to sterilize certain drugs and antibiotics which are harmfully affected by heat; preserve meat and other foods by killing bacteria that cause spoilage; irradiate pork and decrease bacteria in swimming pools without the use of chlorine.

California Beans

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Of course you know about the little white beans Boston has made famous. But did you know that California, the nation's top producer of dried beans, also grows nearly a dozen other varieties They are large limas, small limas, blackeyes, red kidneys, pintos, pinks, cranberrys, California reds and Garbazos. In 1954 the state produced 27 per cent of the nation's total dry bean crop.

Superstitious Crows

WINNSBORO, La. (AP)—Hub Dear believes crows are superstitious. This, says Dear, makes them a cinch to keep out of watermelon patches. Just drive stakes at intervals through the patch and stretch string from stake to stake.

"Thinking the string is some kind of trap, he will not light in the patch where the string is placed," said Dear. "The crow is a smart bird but he is also very superstitious."

Dear discovered this version of the traditional scarecrow in 1917 and has used it since.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Make Your Work an Adventure

A discouraged business man called me on the long distance telephone.

DR. PEALE

"I need some encouragement and guidance," he said. "I called you because you teach the practical application of religion. Well, I have a problem. I own a jewelry store. My grandfather started it and my father ran it before me. Now I own it. But I'm afraid I'm licked. Things aren't going well and I just don't know what to do. And what I want to ask you is how, by employing the principles of faith and right thinking, can I make my jewelry busiess do better? I don't want to get rich, but I do want to make a living. And I'd like to get a little happiness while doing so."

Of course, I have no knowledge of that particular business. But I was able to remember and talk about a friend of mine who was also a jeweler and a very successful one.

I think my friend went into the jewelry business because he loved beauty. He would hold a diamond in the palm of his hand and be entranced by its loveliness. He actually hated to sell such stones, he enjoyed them so much. But then he would think of all the women in his town and wonder who could wear it most fittingly. After he had decided, he would call up this woman and say, "Mary, I have a marvelous diamond, and its beauty seems meant only for you."

This was, of course, a great sales approach, and my friend was a great salesman. A true salesman is always one who believes in his merchandise, but what made this man a great salesman was not any overwhelming desire to sell merchandise, but the fact that he really and truly loved diamonds —and people. Handling jewels seemed to him an adventure in beauty and was the great experience of his life.

"THAT MAN," I told my caller, "was so dedicated that, for him, business wasn't simply the exchange of goods for profit; it was a romantic and thrilling experience as well. It was his way of helping people have a richer life.

"So what you need," I continued, "is to mix your work and your religion together so that you can't tell one from the other. Religion isn't only for Sunday. It's for the market place as well. Realize that your business is worthwhile only to the extent that it serves others and that it is not at its maximum efficiency unless it brings happiness to them and to you. Then you will do a better business, and then what is of greater importance, you will be a better person."

I asked him how he advertised and he said he used spot announcements on radio and television.

"What do you say in these spot advertisements?" I asked.

"Oh, something like, 'Nationally recognized line; good credit allowance,'" he answered.

"That wouldn't thrill me," I said. "Why not take enough time or newspaper space to relate jewelry to the deep human experiences, You might talk, for example, about the loyal wife who has been married for forty years and never owned a diamond. You might remind her husband that, although her hands are gnarled and worn with toil, there is the glory of love and service in them and they deserve the affectionate recognition a diamond would give them. Or you might advise a young man to put a diamond on the finger of the girl he loves as bright as the sparkling diamond in her eyes. Put a sincere human touch in your business, for you are dealing in dreams and heart throbs. Relate your work to the deepest experiences of human life.

LATER I RECEIVED an excited report. My caller had learned that his jewelry business could actually be a glorious adventure in living. By following these simple principles, he shifted from an emphasis upon selling merchandise to the thrill of serving, helping bring beauty into the lives of ordinary people. And, of course, business that serves is always economically sound.

You may think your own work is dull and unromantic. But there is no such thing as a dull, unromantic job. It is the man or woman who works at it who may be dull and unresourceful. When you cease thinking drab thoughts about your job and look deeply into its possibilities, you will discover that even the most seemingly common occupation is not without its thrill.

I will never forget Charley Franzen, one of the best carpenters I ever knew, who, running his hand lovingly over a panel he had just completed, remarked: "I get a great kick out of this job. I'd rather work with wood than anything in the world." He knew how to put adventure into his work.

2,300 Receive Free X-Rays in Marion County

Nearly 2,300 Marion and county residents over age 15 took advantage of the opportunity to have free chest X-rays this week when the Ohio Department of Health's mobile unit visited in the county.

Of the total, 1,692 stopped at the cruiser unit during the day Thursday and up until 9:30 Friday night when it was parked on Main St. in front of the Marion County Courthouse. Visit of the unit here was sponsored by the Marion County Tuberculosis and Health Association and the two local health departments.

Monday through Wednesday, the X-rays were taken for employes of the Erie Railroad, Baker Wood Preserving Co., Fairfield Engineering Co., the Ohio Edison Co. both in Marion and near Prospect and General Telephone Co. and at Caledonia.

Technicians said the usual number of X-rays taken in a six-hour period is around 700, amounting to approximately two a minute, but that Thursday and Friday in Marion that figure was much exceeded.

Cards which were filled out for those having the X-rays made will be returned to the individual by mail with results of the picture listed.

Truck Traced By Tire Track On Boy's Back

CLEVELAND (AP)—The bruised back of a seriously injured boy showed the imprint of a tire tread and led investigators to a truck which police say ran him down.

The injured child was Richard Olson, 4, in serious condition in a hospital with a crushed pelvis, fractured left leg, crushed ribs and a possible skull fracture. He was struck while sitting on a curb next to the Tube Form Co. on East 66th Street Tuesday.

At the hospital, marks of the tire tread showed up in bruises the day after he was hit. Checking firms which had received truck deliveries the day of the accident, officers compiled a list of eight trucks to investigate.

Finally they picked up a 55-year-old truck driver who said he was at the Tube Form Co. about the time the boy was hurt, but denied knowledge of an accident. A lie detector test supported this

The case will be turned over to the police prosecutor.

Old Armored Car Can't Take It Now

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Police rolled out their 25-year-old armored car—the Merrimac—to see if it would still stop bullets.

The spine-chilling results might have been spine-drilling if an officer had been inside.

To test the ancient vehicle, unused since 1948, a police marksman opened up with a 30 caliber carbine firing steel-jacketed bullets. The bullets tore through one side of the Merrimac, zipped through the interior and left distinct dents in the other side.

Jackson County Officials' Feud Kept Alive by Filing of New Suit

JACKSON, Ohio (AP) — Feuding Jackson County officials have added another court case to the calendar. County Democratic Chairman Harold (Foxy) Rowe yesterday filed a damage suit for $50,000 against the prosecuting attorney and a former deputy sheriff.

Rowe said prosecutor Mary Nicholson Snyder and former Deputy Sheriff A B Bishop, among others, conspired to cause him physical and mental discomfort by bringing an embezzlement charge against him.

The charge later was dismissed by mayor Wayne, Harberger, who said his court would not be used to air "personal grievances."

Lora Wills, a sawmill operator, claimed he gave Rowe $125 expense money on Rowe's promise to see Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche in an attempt to get Wills' son released from Ohio Penitentiary. Wills also was named in Rowe's damage suit.

Rowe also has secured a writ of prohibition in a witness intimidation charge against him. A hearing on a permanent writ is set for next Tuesday.

Edward E. Davis of Oak Hill filed the charge, claiming Rowe sought to have Elvin McGowan change his testimony in the trial at Gallipolis of Jackson County Sheriff David L. Trago. The sheriff faces a morals charge filed by the mother of a 17-year-old airman.

The sheriff is the only elected Democratic office holder in the county.

Rowe's attorney says the writ was to block action by justice of the peace Emerson Gullett of Oak Hill, who ordered Rowe's $500 appearance bond forfeited and bound him over to the grand jury on the intimidation charge.

The attorney said he believed Gullett's hearing illegal because Rowe was not present.

AS MODERN AS TOMORROW
HOLY BIBLE
THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
Day Book Chapter Verses
Sunday Psalms 27 1-14
Monday Psalms 46 1-11
Tuesday Matthew 6 19-34
Wednesday Matthew 7 15-29
Thursday John 4 21-26
Friday Romans 8 12-25
Saturday Romans 8 26-39
Does going to church seem to you old-fashioned?
Well, it is, for worship is as old as creation, yet ever-new.
In church buildings before the fourteenth century there were no seats. Worshippers stood, or sat on cold damp floors. Later, three-legged stools were used.
Today, churches compare with our finest buildings in modern beauty, comfort, and convenience.
Our speech habits have changed with advancing generations. Scriptural style, too, has changed, yet neither meaning nor intent has been altered. The Bible's message remains the same—a gospel of good news filled with faith, hope, and love—for you, the same as for your forefathers.
Then be old-fashioned. Go to church. Find for yourself a faith that is steadfast—"the same yesterday, today, and forever,"—yet modern as tomorrow.

The Problem of the County Fairs

The Marion County Fair opens a six-day session today, and we hope the tremendous amount of work that goes into staging it will be rewarded by greatly-increased attendance.

County fairs have had their ups and downs in recent years, largely for the same reason other mass entertainment and educational attractions have had their troubles—too much competition.

Forty or fifty years ago the fairs, circuses and an occasional traveling theatrical or musical group provided the only major breaks in the routine of living. Consequently, they seldom had any attendance problems.

Today, however, the avenues of entertainment and relaxation are almost limitless and with modern transportation as it is, traveling several hundred miles to see a worthwhile attraction has become commonplace.

Beyond that, television has just about finished the job of taking all the novelty out of almost any kind of entertainment. As a result we have become a nation of people surfeited by our educational, cultural and entertainment opportunities, sometimes it seems almost to the extent of sheer boredom.

This is at least one of the maladies affecting major league baseball, which has an investigation under way to discover why attendance is down in a time of economic prosperity and, in the American League, in the face of one of the exciting pennant races in years.

The motion picture industry survived one of the rockiest periods in its history and worked out its salvation by deciding the only answer was to improve the quality of its pictures—technically as well as dramatically.

It seems to us that's the only answer for any entertainment media or event, fairs included. The public has shown it will turn out for outstanding attractions, but only for the best.

Modernization, streamlining and a constant effort to improve all departments should do the trick for county fairs, and some of them must have found the solution judging by the number of attendance records that are being broken.

That's why we hope this year will be a banner one for the Marion County Fair and that it will get bigger, and better, with each succeeding year.

Oliva Made His Point

A way back there in the thirties, when tourists were jamming the roads to Callander, Ont., to see the Dionne quintuplets and buy souvenirs, there was a squabble over who was going to handle the finances.

Papa Dionne (Oliva), who had been overshadowed by Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, his five famous daughters and even by Mama Dionne, suddenly stepped into the foreground and asserted himself. The quintuplets were his children, and he did not propose to be elbowed out of his parental rights by Ontario, the Dominion of Canada or the do-gooders who had rallied 'round to protect him from his ignorance of worldly affairs. Oliva did not drive out the politicians and do-gooders, but he made his point. As the father of the world's most famous babies, he did have his rights.

Oliva was not crowded out. When he filed his letters of administration in Toronto recently, it was disclosed that the estate of Emilie Dionne, who died a year ago this month, was valued at $171,035. The total estate of the surviving quintuplets has been estimated at about a million dollars. As such things go, Oliva Dionne has been handling some pretty big finances. He is a financier.

Not bad at all for a fellow who was a gone-for-broke farmer on May 28, 1934, when he became the father of quintuplets. The quickest and surest way to become a financier, obviously, is to have plenty of money.

Cornered but Not Trapped

Konrad Adenauer's forthcoming visit to Moscow is shaping up as the biggest challenge of the West German chancellor's 70-year career.

The Soviet invitation was hailed as a great victory for the chancellor at the time it was issued. The German people foresaw an opportunity for reunification of their country and return of war prisoners held by Russia. Adenauer was committed to these two goals when he accepted Moscow's invitation.

However, the rug was pulled from under him at Geneva by Khrushchev and Bulganin with the announcement that reunification must be negotiated with East Germany. The Soviet team also made it clear that credit for the release of any German war prisoners would fall to the satellite German state, too.

With the Moscow talks limited to discussion of "diplomatic, trade and cultural relations," it becomes clear that the Soviet's motive is either to seal the division of Germany by formal recognition of two German states, or to offer reunification under conditions which, if accepted, would discredit Chancellor Adenauer in Western eyes or, if rejected, would discredit him in German eyes.

It is too late for Aenauer to back out. He is stuck with the invitation and must make the best of it. He may still show up his hosts as bullies who play the game by their own rules or not at all. The Soviets have Adenauer cornered but they do not yet have him trapped.

Religion In and On the Job

Take Time

By EUGENE CARR

In Charlottesville, on the edge of the University of Virginia campus, is a little red brick restaurant, which, like thousands of similar eating places across the country, depends on a rapid turnover of customers to make money.

This restaurant caters mainly to the student trade, specializes in good food and service at low cost, provides a quick meal or snack between classes or before or after study hours. It accommodates very few people at any one time.

Yet, there is an unusual feature about "Buddy's" in Charlottesville.

At each counter and table space is a white paper doily with a message that reads—TAKE TIME!

Take Time To Think—it is the source of power.

Take Time To Read—it is the fountain of wisdom.

Take Time To Work—it is the price of success.

Take Time To Play—it is the secret of perpetual youth.

Take Time To Be Friendly—it is the road to happiness.

Take Time To Laugh—it is the music of the soul.

Take Time To Love And Be Loved—it is a God-given privilege.

Take Time To Give—it is too short a day to be selfish.

Take Time To Pray—it is the greatest power on earth.

Take Time To Visit—at Buddy's.

Here is a restaurant that, normally, would want its customers to finish up their meals and be on their way as quickly as possible. Only in this way, you would think, could enough people be served each day to make such a small place pay out for the owner. "Keep them moving", might very well be the policy.

Instead, Buddy invites his patrons to take their time, to rest and visit as long as they like. The waitresses are orderly and efficient, but do not hurry. The hostess does not rush a menu to you to get your dessert order. There is no pressure to pay the check and be on your way, even though others may be waiting for a table or counter space.

There in front of you is the constant reminder to take your time and enjoy the truly good things of life—work and play, laugh and be friendly, love and be loved, meditate and learn, give of yourself to others, and spend some time talking with your God.

Our waitress told us Buddy does not claim to be the originator of the message on his paper doilies. Rather, he picked up the various points, one at a time as he came across them, and put them all together for his customers, hopeful they would be led to discover some of the important secrets of happiness and success.

There is little question that Buddy is accomplishing his purpose. Everyday, his message reaches hundreds of people, and if just one goes out of his place benefited and helped, he has made a solid contribution to mankind.

Without doubt, many a student from the nearby university has carried some part of this message with him into the business or professional world, and is a better citizen today because of it.

Buddy has done what any one of us can do. He has not attempted to originate a clever slogan or catch-phrase, or come up with some new and startling bit of advice. He has reached out and discovered for himself some of the basic tenets for good living, and is passing them on to others by the one means and manner available to him. And, in so doing, he is willing to run the risk that it might cost him in personal, material gain.

It is no wonder his little restaurant is a great success!

Dear Nephew: While we were awaiting news of Hurricane Xantippe, your ideas about the progressive breakdown of disciplines have helped to pass the time away.

I do not doubt for a moment they are your own, but you must realize there is nothing original under the sun. The same ideas are in such active circulation that even a rube like me keeps running into them.

I have found them in newspapers and magazines. I have found them in books, and they keep bobbing up all the time in conversation. Therefore, they are well worth talking about. You are on the right track.

The breakdown of disciplines reaches from infants who get out of hand and learn how to impose their will by kicking and screaming, all the way to cantankerous oldsters who are muffing their final responsibility, which is to wither on the vine gracefully.

It takes in the composers of cacophony who are too undisciplined to buckle down to the hard task of composing music, the sculptor who is unwilling to organize his talent to create anything but a blob, the painter who would rather doodle than sweat out a creditable canvas.

All these people, plus writers who find it easier to dilly and dawdle than to bear down on a finished piece of writing, artisans who scamp their duties and let someone else worry about the consequences, mechanics who don't finish the job—they are victims of the break-down of the disciplines that keep a good society from falling apart at the seams.

We have juvenile delinquency because the disciplines that would keep young people from going wild never have been imposed; it would have been too much trouble and the youngsters wouldn't have liked it. You can be darned sure they wouldn't have liked it. They didn't like to be inoculated for whooping cough, smallpox and typhoid fever, either, but no one was scared away when they kicked and screamed about those preventives.

We are willing to enforce stern disciplines when it is a matter of taking care of the human body but when the human mind is concerned. We think there is something cruel about insisting that people should be made to do what they do not want to do.

Worse than that, we let people who are unwilling to do what we have a right to expect them to do sweet-talk us into believing they are doing something else just as good or a lot better. We take them seriously when they claim they have started a new school or a new movement or have opened up new frontiers. Maybe they have, but it is always a good idea to make sure they are not covering up their inability to do the real thing by doing something else that requires no skill and deserves no credit.

You seem to be impressed chiefly with the progressive breakdown of disciplines in matters of social behavior, but your aunt and I believe the real damage is being done in education and culture. It has been men's ability to exploit the resources of their minds through discipline that has set them apart from the lower animals.

If they begin to grow so soft they cannot tackle hard tasks any more, men are going to go down history's drain with a long, low swoosh. That will be the end. Incidentally, your aunt and I are still optimists. We think everything will turn out all right. All we object to is the attempt to make believe that shirkers and spoofers have become the real thing and the real thing, itself, has gone out of existence. It has merely been elbowed aside by a lot of imposters and eventually will regain its rightful eminence. Pass around our regards.

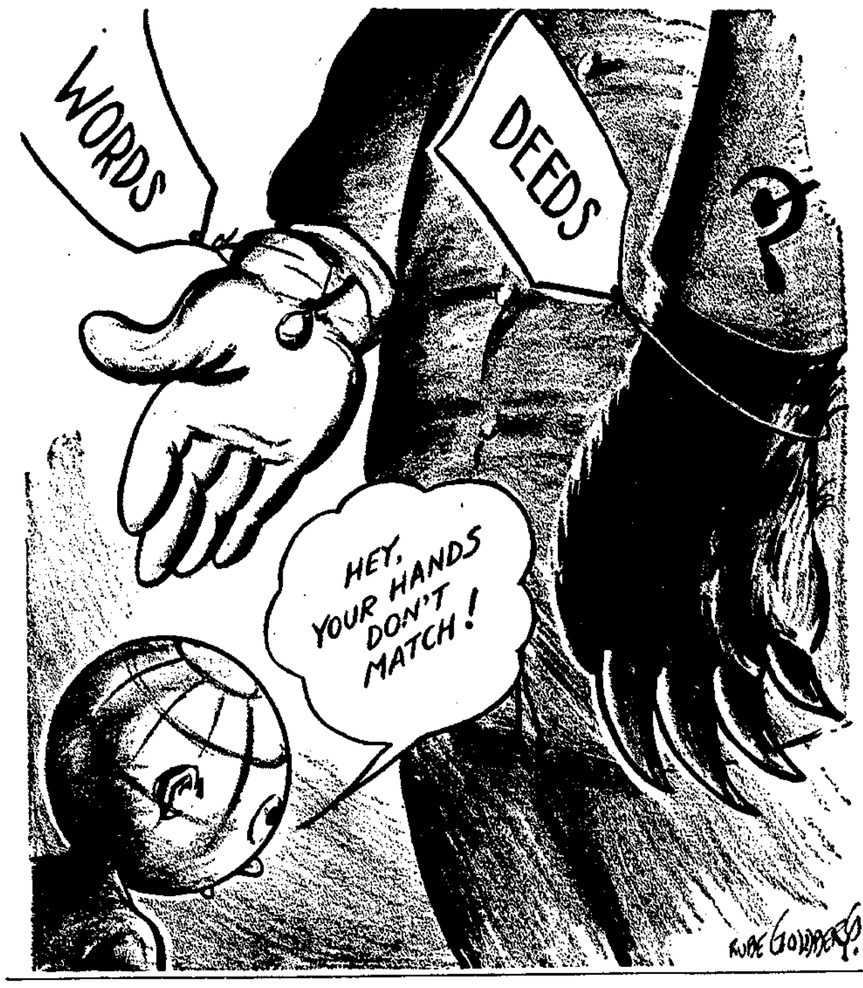
Striking Difference



Code of Conduct for Soldiers

By David Lawrence

It's strange to be reading from a solemn pronouncement from a committee of eminent soldiers and civilians prescribing a code of conduct for Americans who may be captured hereafter as prisoners of war.

Lawrence

What war? Only a few days ago — after Geneva — the world was being told there isn't going to be any more war and that it is too horrible even to mention the subject in an age of nuclear weapons.

The document which tells future "prisoners" to be courageous also says that "the fight continues after the battle." This implies that the folks back home continue the battle, too.

It doesn't look that way now. Thousands of American boys — and some British, too, and the soldiers of other allies — were captured and many of them were tortured. But all during the time they were suffering, the "fight" in their behalf consisted to a large extent of exploring ways and means of appeasing the Communists.

Today, even as the prisoners come back and tell of the frightful torture they encountered, there are prominent men in governments allied with us who want to reward the Red China government with a seat in the United Nations.

RED CHINA was declared an aggressor by the United Nations and is responsible for the cruelties and atrocities inflicted on soldiers who fought in behalf of the United Nations.

What's needed is a new code of conduct for governments that send boys off to war and forget them within a few months after the battle is over.

Dispatches from prominent writers and from many capitals of the world all indicate that the next move is to appease Red China and give it a seat in the Security Council of the United Nations. This is called "relaxing tensions."

After the last World War, the war criminals of militaristic Japan and Nazi Germany were punished. After the Korean war, the war criminals have been permitted to go scot free and may yet be rewarded with a seat in the United Nations.

How can future soldiers be inspired to fight for ideals if the members of the United Nations in whose great cause 30,000 American boys were sacrificed are to disregard ideals?

BUT DISCONCERTING expressions from governments and statesmen allied with us are only a part of the current wave of appeasement.

There is, for example, a deliberate attempt to pooh-pooh Communist infiltration in the United States. Scarcely a day passes that some blow isn't struck at those who are fighting Communist subversion.

Thus, in the last few days a document has been published of a study financed by the Ford Foundation. It selects pieces of testimony and tries to make the security proceedings of the United States look capricious and ludicrous. Nowhere is the full transcript of any hearing given so that both sides of the cross-examination and the reasons for it can be understood.

When Sen. McCarthy stood up in the Senate and gave selected items about individuals suspected of Communist associations, he was pilloried for giving only one side. When the Ford Foundation study gives only piecemeal items without all the background, no criticism is voiced from "left wing" quarters.

RECENTLY THERE has been a hue and cry about anonymous informants, but the Ford Foundation study now being publicized is anonymous so far as giving the facts or the story of both sides or the sources of the study.

Nor is there any information being given to the public as to why some of the questions asked in hearings could be pertinent to a security investigation. If a boy's father, for instance, is in any way tied up with the Communists or if he has relatives behind the iron curtain, this in itself doesn't mean the officer is suspected of communistic beliefs. It means merely that he could be subject to blackmail pressures.

This has happened again and again. In fact, this very month Americans working for Radio Free Europe are finding that their relatives behind the iron curtain are being tortured in an effort to bring pressure to stop the radio broadcasts. The same kind of blackmail occurs when a sex deviate is involved.

SO IT ISN'T nonsensical for a security board to learn what it can about the morals of an individual who has had some associations with Communist causes. It is only common sense not to let anybody occupy a governmental position or be given a post in the armed services if he could later be the victim of attempted blackmail.

Rep. Walter is having a hard time with witnesses who refuse to lamooon his committee.

Many of them are pleading the Fifth Amendment and are refusing to help uncover the Communist conspiracy in the United States, while some sections of the press are upholding the obvious misuse of constitutional provisions.

It isn't the kind of atmosphere which tends to assure future prisoners of war that they will not be forgotten.

The Bonfire Picture

By Frank Tripp

She had a baby in her arms. He had a boy by the hand. They were looking in the window of a music store. I stopped a little longer to eavesdrop on their earnest conversation.

"I could save a little on the table," she said.

"I know, but that costs too much money—for us," he replied.

They were talking about a record player that had a tag "49.95" on it. She continued: "That scratchy thing we have just ruins those albums that you like. You love good music so much that I'd be glad to sacrifice something."

"Well, maybe I could cut some corners too. If only I was sure that I won't get laid off." He was weakening.

By this process, a struggling young couple decided they could eat less, wear less, have less of other things and would buy their heart's desire—a record player that would give them the good music which they craved.

I could have made some suggestions, but it was none of my business. Neither did the children have a chance to protest that they weren't getting any too much of the kind of food they needed. Or mightn't they have piped up, "We like good music too"? Who knows?

AS I MOVED down the street I pondered, "there's a column." I went home and ground out a weighty document about the weakness of people who part with their money for luxuries when they need it for necessities.

It started out just like this column but at about this point it plunged into advice to folks who buy things they can't afford.

On rereading I pegged it as something that maybe I should mention to Fanny. She seldom reads 'em before you do, but I have a way of drawing her out when I plan to inflict something serious on the populace. She's a realistic gal.

I told her about this young couple, how they reflect what's the matter with the country and that I thought something ought to be done about it.

"So you're going to tell the couple that they shouldn't buy the record player, are you?" she asked.

"Well, not exactly that," I said, "just emphasize the point that they might better buy meat."

"You'd better not," she said. "Remember the bonfire picture that you bought when we lived in an attic."

It's one she tells on me too frequently for my comfort. We were living three flights up, under the roof of a flat, so hot in summer that we had to put splints on the candles on the mantel.

THAT WEEK'S food budget was down to two lamb chops for supper; not even two, unless I trudged over to Live-and-Let-Live Connelly's to buy 'em. Then the budget would be empty.

I started for the magnanimous Mr. Connelly's food emporium and passed Howe's Art Store on the way. That's why Fanny said, "remember the bonfire picture."

Just like the couple looked at the record player, I looked at a picture of a bonfire on a beach. I never could resist things done in red—till came communism.

This bonfire was the brightest, most glorious red I've ever seen. Lamb chops and hunger, even the depleted state of our exchequer, fled from my feeble mind.

I went in and bought the picture, took it home to Fanny who was waiting for the chops.

"Isn't it a beauty!" I exclaimed.

"Simply gorgeous," said Fanny. "Sit down and eat it."

That night I ate bread and milk, with no regrets, the bonfire propped up before me.

When I remembered how badly I wanted the cheap chromo I was full of sympathy, rather than guidance, for the young couple.

So I tore up my advice to spendthrifts and wrote what you've just read.

That bonfire picture hangs on my workshop wall to this day.

Inadequate Performance

Out of this week's Un-American Activities Committee quiz of show business comes a general impression that the asbestos curtain should have been lowered between the probers and the witnesses in compliance with the fire department laws. For once the public beheld the unusual spectacle of Broadway and TV performers declining a speaking part and seeking good reviews through excellent delivery of the one line: "I refuse to answer."

The attitude of most witnesses toward the U. S. congressmen could have been expressed by the old vaudeville curse: "May all your children be acrobats!"

It was a disturbing production and what puzzles John Q. Citizen is the reluctance of so many show-business people, if they were ever Commies, to admit they made a big mistake and changed their act. The boys seemed to be ad libbing.

SUPPOSE AN ACTOR once thought there was a bright future playing one end of a stage-horse in old-time vaudeville, but changed his mind. . .why shouldn't he be willing to admit it?. . .(Unless he is still doing the horse?)

We know a producer who for years thought the broader life was opened up to him through a part in a trained seal act, immediately following the man who imitated birdcalls.

Anybody can make a mistake and the "mistake average" in show biz is extra high. Whether or not a duly authorized congressional committee is invading privacy (so actors want PRIVACY!!!) it seems to us that Uncle Sam and Miss Liberty are top stars in any production and entitled to less vilification and more respect.

At many points Broadway witnesses made the quiz seem to fall somewhere between Hellza-Poppin and Macbeth, with touches of the old Hippodrome disappearing water ballet.

After all the United States congressmen are carrying out a prescribed task and, right or wrong, are entitled to more than kettledrums, Roman mob scenes and a seat with a complete view of the stage obstructed. Why the high tempers and the big clam-up?

There is not an actor in show business who hasn't spoken worse lines than "Yes, I made an error. I regret it. On with the show."

Communist influence in the theater, if any, is a deadly serious matter and this inquiry is not a revival of "Up in Mabel's Room" by the Potomac River Dramatic Players. Many people would have liked to see Broadway and its probers look a map of America in the face and say, "It's bigger than both of us."

SOME ACTORS, it appears, don't want their names in lights over the marquees of any congressional inquiry and resent the center of the stage in any committee production. But even if you don't like some probe procedures, its hard to see why Broadway should be so rebellious against the call of "Curtain going up!" from duly authorized probers.

Actors love applause. They die for good reviews. Why such inadequate performances in Washington's thriller entitled "Is You Is or Is You Ain't?"

Chairman Walter and his committee members couldn't have received colder shoulders from some witnesses if they had been dramatic critics.

THE SHOW WAS STOLEN by Bernard Baruch, an 81-year-old performer, who with only a Central Park bench rehearsal, did a walk-on and got top reviews for a single dramatic line, "any person with nothing to fear can answer anything."

How To Cast an Animal

KENYA
British East Africa

If the actors aren't careful, the animals are going to run off with all their jobs. As Walt Disney's nature movies have proved, they are very great hams and the public can hardly get enough of them. Out here where Marlin Perkins and a retinue of cameramen and technicians are shooting a series of wild animal pictures for forthcoming "Zoo Parade" programs, we have discovered the animals can be as temperamental as Ava Gardner when you try to photograph them.

JOHN CROSBY

They haven't the sense yet to demand money for their services but I expect ultimately they will when a Hollywood agent discovers what a gold mine he is neglecting. In that regard they have fallen well behind the Masei tribesman who, when you point a camera at them, toss their range nighties over their heads, leaving exposed only what you can't conceivably photograph.

They won't emerge until you cross their palms with small coins. The day will come—you mark my words — when the elephants will retreat into deepest shade until you throw some silver out on the plains to lure them out where you take pictures.

IT'S A MADDENING business, taking pictures of wild animals, but it is endlessly fascinating. One thing that struck me almost immediately is how perfectly typecast animals are. The nobility and grandeur of the lion, the ponderous dignity of the elephant, the savage irascibility of the rhino — in every case I can think of, the appearance of the animals almost exactly matches their characters.

Those are rather obvious examples but it seems to follow right through the animal kingdom. The other day we were watching a score of vultures tear into the carcass of an elephant. Their table manners are not pretty and neither are their scavenging habits and neither are their looks. Into this mess walked a hyena, scattered the birds every which way, picked off a hunk and walked off —the very picture of a cowardly bully which is what a hyena is.

WHAT INTERESTED me most in this tableau, as an example of perfect animal type-casting, were the maribou storks. Now a maribou stork is a tall, slender, prissy bird with a very long-pointed beak. He has a dirty red head, bluish gray wings and a white front which looks like a shirt front and, with his long slender legs, he minces about with a sort of fraudulent gentility.

Because his long straight beak is unsuited for tearing flesh off, he stands aloof from the carcass, exuding moral disapproval of this deplorable scene — until a vulture gets a piece of flesh. Then he steals it from him. Just a flash of the long beak and the meat is down his gullet. They remind me, these maribou storks, of some lawyers I know who preach the law with great self-righteousness and somehow wind up with the boodle.

FIRST COME THE predators, the adventurers, who do the killing and the hard work, and then come the scavengers and finally the lawyers. The human parallels are too painfully pat to be dwelt on.

Of course, you can argue that we endowed these appearances with these qualities after the fact, that we have assumed that a leonine head is a splendid thing because a lion is and that a vulture-like appearance is repulsive because a vulture is (though how, by any standards of beauty, a vulture could be considered handsome, I can't imagine).

But then how do you explain the maribou stork? I never heard of a maribou stork before I got here and believe me, he looks the part. There are lots of problems connected with shooting wild animal pictures but the casting director hasn't any. In fact you could get rid of him altogether.

Galionite Arrested On Assault Charge After Fight in Cafe

GALION — A 27-year-old Galion man, Edward Goney, was to appear in Galion Municipal Court Court this morning on an assault and battery charge.

The charge, filed by Casto Brown, a neighbor, arose from an altercation in a cafe on Harding Way East, Friday at 1:15 p.m., police reported.

During an argument, Goney allegedly struck Brown and then a third man, Raymond Medrano, interferred in the fight, police reported. Both crashed into a window there and when police arrived were fighting on the sidewalk.

Goney, who earlier in the evening was warned about creating a disturbance at a Galion grill by city police, then broke away from policemen and fled two blocks south of the public square before he was apprehended.

Medrano was treated for a severe cut on his arm and Goney for treatment of cuts at Galion Community Hospital where both were immediately released.

Goney allegedly threatened the lives of a city patrolmen and Mrs. Brown in addition to Casto Brown, police said. Police Chief Morris Bowers said charges in addition to the assault and battery charge are to be filed against Goney.

Jumpers Remain Popular for Juniors

Dark Blouses Preferred In Fall Combination For School Girls

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Fall forecasts show the popular jumper will again be top choice for back-to-school wardrobes from junior high to college.

This fall, however, campus style dictators have reversed the color scheme, preferring the look of a dark blouse with a lighter-toned jumper. This combination is a practical one, for nowadays there are washable woolens and corduroys that may be tossed right in the washing machine.

Even a beginner seamstress can make a smart pumper in jog time. Local sewing center experts point out that the jumper, which can double as a party dress without the blouse, is made from only two major pattern pieces. There is no waistline seam in the one they selected, and a simple elastic casing controls skirt fullness.

Since the fit of a dress such as this depends almost entirely on having the waistline in exactly the right place, young sewing fans will appreciate the convenience of directions printed right on the pattern pieces, indicating the correct spot for waistline adjustments.

The pattern for a French-cuffed blouse with little-boy collar is packaged with the jumper pattern. Black cotton makes good contrast with a black and white printed corduroy jumper, or you might choose a dark brown blouse with a beige jumper of washable wool. Since the pattern is so easy, you might make a couple of jumpers at once, cutting out both at the same time, making simultaneous pattern adjustments. Make one in a sturdy fabric for school, another in a pastel—such as pale pink with an American Beauty shirt—for party wear.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL FAVORITE. Light jumper, dark shirt is new look for school belles. This is black and white print corduroy with black shirt, easy to make.

Officer Acquitted Of Collaboration While a Prisoner

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—An acquittal of Lt. Jefferson D. Erwin of charges he collaborated with the enemy as a prisoner of war in Korea should have "heavy impact" on other such pending courts-martial, his attorney said.

The nine-officer trial board's announcement of its findings late Friday in the case of the 38-year-old Blanchard, Okla., career soldier brought applause from spectators. The board deliberated two hours, 15 minutes.

Erwin, a prisoner 32 months before his release during operation Big Switch Sept. 4, 1953, insisted to newsmen after the announcement that his faith in military justice "never wavered."

"I sweated blood during the last three weeks," he said. "I dropped from 190 to 176 pounds. But I knew justice would prevail."

During the sessions, Erwin admitted that he had made the statement while a POW that South Korea attacked North Korea with the backing of the United States. He acknowledged signing half a dozen propaganda articles. He was a POW at both the Pyoctong and Pyongyang Camps.

He contended, however, that his actions were made under duress, including threats by the Chinese that they would kill him if he did not go along with their propaganda and indoctrination programs.

Plane Hit by Exploding Shell, Not Enemy Fire

SEOUL (AP) — The U.S. 5th Air Force said today a C47 search plane, hit by an exploding shell Thursday, "was not subjected to enemy fire." It "presumably" was hit accidentally by allied artillery.

The transport was searching for a training plane shot down earlier by communist anti-aircraft fire. The training plane crashed in communist territory with Air Force 2nd Lt. Guy H. Bumpass of Jackson, Miss., and Army Capt. Charles W. Brown of Clay, Ky.

Escapee Gives Up to Officers

BUCYRUS — State highway patrolmen from the Bucyrus post this morning apprehended Donald Eugene Nicholson, 26, of Nevada, one of two inmates who Tuesday walked away from the London Prison Farm honor camp.

Nicholson and Vaughn Holland left the London prison camp Tuesday morning. Nicholson was serving time for a parole violation and reportedly had a lengthy record of auto larceny and break-ins. In March, 1954, he was charged with parole violation and was returned to the London prison camp.

Bucyrus patrolmen received a phone call about 12:20 a.m. today from Nicholson's mother, Mrs. Ora Nicholson of Nevada, who told the officers that her son had decided to give himself up. Nicholson was picked up and taken to the Crawford County jail where he is being held during investigation.

Nicholson has told authorities that he stole an auto in London when he escaped from the prison farm and that a car which was found abandoned Tuesday afternoon near Bucyrus is the one he took.

Woman Jumps From Car To Flee Kidnaper

AURORA, Ind. (AP) — An Ohio farm woman kidnaped last night by an escaped convict jumped from her halted automobile early today and the Indiana State Patrol nabbed her captor.

Mrs. Helen Trainer, 51, was forced to drive Jack Johnson, 25, from the Trainer home near Plattsburg in eastern Clark County to this Indiana town about 15 miles west of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Trainer was unharmed, Patrolman Paul Alford said.

Mrs. Trainer leaped from the car and told the patrolman of the frantic night ride.

Johnson, who was serving a term for forgery and housebreaking, attempted to escape by climbing a fence, Alford said he caught Johnson half way up the structure. He had been armed but lost his gun beside the car, Alford said.

Johnson, sentenced from Hamilton County, will be held in the Dearborn County Jail at Dearborn.

Ohio State patrolmen said Mrs. Trainer was taken from her farm home at gunpoint and ordered to drive him away in the Trainer car. Johnson escaped from the London, Ohio, Prison Farm Thursday night. Mrs. Trainer's husband, Herbert, called a daughter in Springfield, Ohio, to report the kidnaping. The daughter, Mrs. Ruth Sharver, notified police.

Mrs. Trainer made her leap for freedom in Aurora on U. S. 59. Aurora residents volunteered to help drive her home.

Detroit Policeman, Assailant Kill Each Other in Gun Battle

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit policeman and his shotgun wielding assailant were killed in a 15-minute gun battle today in a westside rooming house. "A drunk with a gun" report had led police to the scene.

Killed were Patrolman George Krueger, 29-year-old father of three, and Ellis Bailey, 33, an Indiana construction worker.

A shotgun blast in the left chest killed Krueger. Half a dozen police bullets in chest, back and arms killed Bailey.

Detective Sgt. Charles Perry said Bailey, who lived near Shelbyville, Ind., apparently had come to Detroit Friday night to kill his wife, Linda, 21. Mrs. Bailey, Perry said, left Shelbyville Aug. 11 and, accompanied by her four small children, moved into a flat where her sister, Mrs. Korene Jones, also lives.

Mrs. Bailey told police: "I left him because he was always drunk and spent all his money on other women. I came here to get away from him and get a job."

Barbara Shelton, 15-year-old daughter of the caretaker of the six-family flat, said she and her mother, Mrs. Velma Shelton, and Mrs. Bailey's sister, Korene Jones, were sitting in the first floor front room when they saw Bailey get out of a taxicab with an encased shotgun under his arm. She said he staggered.

Mrs. Bailey and her children had left the flat two hours earlier to spend the night with her brother, Frank Bowen. She had asked her brother to come and get her, "because I had a feeling something was going to happen."

Barbara called police.

Krueger and four other officers were dispatched to the house. All five climbed the stairs. Four turned left at the head of the stairs. Krueger turned right. Then there was a terrific blast. Krueger staggered down the stairs, clutching his left chest.

Other policemen took cover and a few minutes later flung tear gas canisters up front and side stairs. Bailey was shot when he thrust his head through an upstairs window.

Man's Wallet Missing

Theft of a wallet containing $37 was reported to city police Friday night by Gage Mallory of 500 Grant St. Mallory told police the wallet was taken from a rear room in his home sometime during the evening.

Color Confusion

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Those bright new colors on 1955 automobiles are pretty, but at least one Philadelphia woman thinks they're also confusing.

She wanted a taxicab, hailed a brightly-painted car at an intersection and began tugging at the rear door handle.

"Please, lady," said the driver, "This is my car, my own private car. It's not a cab."

Arkansas School Closes; Integration Move Stirs Furor

HOXIE, Ark. (AP) — The Hoxie school board summarily closed the public schools of this east Arkansas farm town Friday to seek a way to calm the publim furor over its admission of negroes to the white schools.

In a terse statement, the board said, "the board votes to close the summer session of school at the end of six weeks in order to be able to give more careful consideration to the solution of the present school problem."

The schools weren't scheduled to shut down until Sept. 2. Classes start July 1 here, then recess during the cotton harvest.

The board gave no word as to when school will re-open. Neither did it indicate whether integration would be continued.

Twenty-five Negroes were admitted to the school, which have an enrollment of about 1,000 white children, last month in an effort by the board to cut costs.

Farmer Herbert Brewer started a protest movement shortly after integration was completed, and succeeded in obtaining a partial boycott of the schools by white parents.

Girl, 17, Being Held

A 17-year-old Marion girl was taken to the Juvenile Detention Home early this morning when police found her and a 22-year-old man sitting in the middle of the Quarry St. Cemetery drinking beer.

Police reported they first took the girl to her home, but then took her to the Dentention Home when she indicated she did not wish to stay at home. She will appear before the juvenile officer next week.

Police Chief Thomas B. Coon said this morning that state law prohibits the possession of an open bottle of any intoxicating liquor, including beer, in any public place. He said the law included cemeteries and city parks. Several complaints have been received by police from persons reporting drinking in city parks, and Coons said the law will be enforced.

On so many things that are bought today . . . from food to furniture . . . the whole family has something to say. That's why it's so important to reach everybody with news about what you're selling.
